Assured Destruction David Bath, 2020-03-15 Assured Destruction Building the Ballistic Missile Culture of the U S Air Force documents the rapid development of nuclear ballistic missiles in the United States and their equally swift demise after the Cuban Missile Crisis revealing how these drastic changes negatively influenced both the Air Force and the missile community David W Bath contends that the struggle to create and control nuclear ballistic missiles threatened both the dominance of the United States during an intensifying Cold War and the strategic airpower mission of the newly created Air Force The book details the strenuous efforts required to create and prepare a missile arsenal before the Cuban Missile Crisis which occurred only five years after the first missile was declared operational It uses the personal recollections of former missileers and the professional military education theses they wrote to highlight some of the concerns that have faced the missileers who operated and worked on these powerful weapons from 1957 to the present The highlight of the book however is the personal stories of the missileers who served during the missile crisis revealing the efforts that they went to in order to prepare these unique and untried weapons for what many thought might become the third world war

Strengthening the Military Family Readiness System for a Changing American Society National Academies of Sciences, Engineering, and Medicine, Division of Behavioral and Social Sciences and Education, Board on Children, Youth, and Families, Committee on the Well-Being of Military Families, 2019-10-25 The U S military has been continuously engaged in foreign conflicts for over two decades The strains that these deployments the associated increases in operational tempo and the general challenges of military life affect not only service members but also the people who depend on them and who support them as they support the nation their families Family members provide support to service members while they serve or when they have difficulties family problems can interfere with the ability of service members to deploy or remain in theater and family members are central influences on whether members continue to serve In addition rising family diversity and complexity will likely increase the difficulty of creating military policies programs and practices that adequately support families in the performance of military duties Strengthening the Military Family Readiness System for a Changing American Society examines the challenges and opportunities facing military families and what is known about effective strategies for supporting and protecting military children and families as well as lessons to be learned from these experiences This report offers recommendations regarding what is needed to strengthen the support system for military families Nudge and the Law Alberto Alemanno, Anne-Lise Sibony, 2015-09-24 Behavioural sciences help refine our understanding of human decision making Their insights are immensely relevant for policy making since public intervention works much better when it targets real people rather than imaginary beings assumed to be perfectly rational Increasingly governments around the world are keen to rely on those insights for reshaping public interventions in a wide range of policy areas such as energy health financial services and data protection When policy making meets behavioural sciences effective and low cost regulations can emerge in the form of default rules smart disclosure and simplification requirements While behaviourally informed intervention has a huge potential for policymaking it also attracts legitimacy and practicability concerns Nudge and the Law takes a European perspective on those issues and explores the legal implications of the emergent phenomenon of behavioural regulation by focusing on the challenges and opportunities it may offer to EU policy making and beyond World Ocean Assessment Alan Simcock, 2017-04-17 This United Nations report examines the current state of knowledge of the world's oceans for policymakers and provides a reference for marine science courses California Dreaming Lawrence J. McQuillan, 2015-05-01 A politically created crisis of epic proportions is brewing in California and elsewhere across the United States For decades public pension officials and politicians of both parties have promised their employees increasingly generous retirement benefits while low balling the contributions from government agencies and employees that are needed to cover these promises presenting our greatest financial challenge since the Great Depression Pushing the pension liability from today and onto our children and grandchildren leaves them with a depleted future and a potentially bankrupt California State and local governments will scramble to find funds forcing them to raise taxes slash public services and or declare bankruptcy Schools parks emergency services and public employee retirement benefits will be at risk Politicians will defer until circumstances force them to reckon with a disaster of their own making The problem For far too long state and local governments have promised their employees increasingly generous retirement benefits but without ensuring that sufficient funds will be on hand when the pension payments come due In California Dreaming Lawrence J McQuillan pulls back the curtains covering this unfunded liability crisis He describes the true extent of the problem explains the critical factors that are driving public pension debt sky high and exposes the perverse incentives of lawmakers and pension officials that reward them for not fixing the problem and letting it escalate Finally he offers the six crucial reforms needed to restore the financial health of California and other threatened jurisdictions If California Dreaming s roadmap for reform is adopted the prospects for achieving a thriving balanced and equitable future are highly favorable in California and any state or municipality facing its own public pension problem If not the many opportunities that once made the Golden State seem like a Promised Land will quickly evaporate
