The Normal Accident Theory of Education Andrew K. Milton, 2014-04-01 Much of the current debate about education too often resembles the blind men describing an elephant apprehending only a particular part of the situation or the process many analysts tell an evocative but incomplete story The so called reform discussion proceeds with a lack of depth about the nuances and realistic limitations in the institutional order of school This book argues that as regulation of schools moves further up the bureaucratic hierarchy first to state departments of education then to the national department of education the legal and institutional requirements get more intensive but less concretely useful in class rooms This bureaucratization serves to tighten the organizational environment thereby increasing the risk of normal accidents The increasing governmental management in other words makes it more likely that schools will fail to meet their goals Analyses of education are too often developed for public consumption in a fast moving political world This book examines some of the deeper organizational reasons why things don t work so well in school as well as a look at some of things that do work Most importantly the book will explain how the social and cultural expectations of what schools can do may create unrealistic hopes We as a society and schools as institutions embrace these unreasonably high hopes at our

Omelicheva,2014-12-17 More than two decades after the break up of the Soviet Union Central Asian republics Kazakhstan Kyrgyzstan Tajikistan Turkmenistan and Uzbekistan continue to reexamine and debate whom and what they represent Nationalism and Identity Construction in Central Asia explores the complex and controversial process of identity formation in the region using a 3D framework which stands for Dimensions Dynamics and Directions of nation building The first part of the framework dimensions underscores the new and complex ways in which nationalisms and identities manifest themselves in Central Asia The second part dynamics is premised on the idea that nationalisms and identity construction in the Central Asian republics may indicate some continuities with the past but are more concerned with legitimation of the present power politics in these states It calls for the identification of the main actors strategies tactics interests and reactions to the processes of nationalism and identity construction The third part of the framework directions addresses implications of nationalisms and identity construction in Central Asia for regional and international peace and cooperation Jointly the chapters of the volume address domestic and international level dimensions dynamics and directions of identity formation in Central Asia What unites these works is their shared modern and post modern understanding of nations nationalisms and identities as discursive strategic and tactical formations They are viewed as constructed and imagined and therefore continuously changing but also fragmented and contested

Facing Forward Sajitha Bashir,Marlaine Lockheed,Elizabeth Ninan,Jee-Peng Tan,2018-09-20 Facing Forward lays out a range of policy and implementation actions that are needed for countries in Sub Saharan Africa to meet the challenge of improving learning while expanding access and completion of basic education for all The book underscores the importance of aligning the education system to be relentlessly focused on learning outcomes and to ensuring that all children have access to good schools good learning materials and good teachers It is unique in characterizing countries according to the challenges they faced in the 1990s and the educational progress they have made over the past 25 years allowing countries in the region to learn from each other The authors review the global literature and add to it by their extensive new analyses of multiple datasets from more than three dozen countries in the region they integrate findings about what affects children s learning their access to schooling and progress through basic education The book draws lessons from the region and for the region about what works and what is needed to better implement what is known to have worked The book examines four areas to help countries better align their systems to improve learning 1 completing the unfinished agenda of reaching universal basic education with quality 2 ensuring effective management and support of teachers 3 targeting spending priorities and budget processes on improving quality and 4 closing the institutional capacity gap It concludes with an assessment of how future educational progress may be affected by projected fertility rates and economic growth

Learning as Development Daniel A. Wagner,2017-10-04 Learning is the foundation of the human experience It begins at birth and never stops a continuous and malleable link across life stages of human development Disparities in learning access and outcomes around the world have deep consequences for income social mobility health and well being For international development practitioners faced with today s unprecedented environmental and geopolitical pressures learning should be viewed as a touchstone and target for those seeking to truly effect global change This book traces the path of international development work from its pre colonial origins to the emergence of economics as the dominant discipline in the field and lays out a new agenda for policymakers researchers and practitioners from early education through adulthood Learning as Development is an attempt to rethink international education in a changing world
