impoverished sharecroppers who had fought supported or expressed sympathy for the Confederacy was required by law to sue for pardon to reclaim certain privileges All such requests arrived at the desk of President Andrew Johnson who ultimately determined which petitioners regained the right to vote hold office practice law operate a business and buy and sell land Those individuals filing petitions experienced Reconstruction in personal and profound ways Supplicants wrote and circulated their exoneration documents among loyalist neighbors friends and Union officers to obtain favorable endorsements that might persuade Brownlow and Johnson to grant pardon Former Rebels relayed narratives about the motivating factors compelling them to side with the Confederacy chronicled their actions during the war expressed repentance and pledged allegiance to the United States government and the Constitution Although not required many petitioners even sought recommendations from their former wartime foes The pardoning of former Confederates proved a collaborative process in which neighbors acquaintances and erstwhile enemies lodged formal pleas to grant or deny clemency from state and federal officials Indeed as Rebel Salvation reveals the long road to peace began here in the newly reunited communities of postwar Tennessee

Arts Programming for the Anthropocene Bill Gilbert, Anicca Cox, 2018-11-21 Arts Programming for the Anthropocene argues for a role for the arts as an engaged professional practice in contemporary culture charting the evolution of arts over the previous half century from a primarily solitary practice involved with its own internal dialogue to one actively seeking a larger discourse The chapters investigate the origin and evolution of five academic field programs on three continents mapping developments in field pedagogy in the arts over the past twenty years Drawing upon the collective experience of artists and academicians in the United States Australia and Greece operating in a wide range of social and environmental contexts it makes the case for the necessity of an update to ensure the real world relevance and applicability of tertiary arts education Based on thirty years of experimentation in arts pedagogy including the creation of the Land Arts of the American West LAAW program and Art and Ecology discipline at the University of New Mexico this book is written for arts practitioners aspiring artists art educators and those interested in how the arts can contribute to strengthening cultural resiliency in the face of rapid environmental change

Standing between Life and Extinction David L. Propst, Jack E. Williams, Kevin R. Bestgen, Christopher W. Hoagstrom, 2021-02-15 North American deserts lands of little water have long been home to a surprising diversity of aquatic life from fish to insects and mollusks With European settlement however water extraction resource exploitation and invasive species set many of these native aquatic species on downward spirals In this book conservationists dedicated to these creatures document the history of their work the techniques and philosophies that inform it and the challenges and opportunities of the future A precursor to this book Battle Against Extinction laid out the scope of the problem and related conservation activities through the late 1980s Since then many nascent conservation programs have matured and researchers have developed new technologies improved and refined methods and greatly expanded our knowledge of the myriad influences on the ecology and dynamics of these species Standing between Life and

Extinction brings the story up to date While the future for some species is more secure than thirty years ago others are less fortunate Calling attention not only to iconic species like the razorback sucker Gila trout and Devils Hole pupfish but also to other fishes and obscure and fascinating invertebrates inhabiting intermittent aquatic habitats this book explores the scientific social and political challenges of preserving these aquatic species and their habitats amid an increasingly charged political discourse and in desert regions characterized by a growing human population and rapidly changing climate

Teaching to Change the World Jeannie Oakes, Martin Lipton, Lauren Anderson, Jamy Stillman, 2018-01-29 Teaching to Change the World is an up to the moment engaging social justice oriented introduction to education and teaching and the challenges and opportunities they present Both foundational and practical the chapters are organized around conventional topics but in a way that consistently integrates a coherent story that explains why schools are as they are Taking the position that a hopeful democratic future depends on ensuring that all students learn the text pays particular attention to inequalities associated with race social class language gender and other social categories and explores teachers role in addressing them This thoroughly revised fifth edition remains a vital introduction to the profession for a new generation of teachers who seek to become purposeful knowledgeable practitioners in our ever changing educational landscape for those teachers who see the potential for education to change the world Features and Updates of the New Edition Fully updated Chapter 1 The U S Schooling Dilemma reflects our current state of education after the 2016 U S presidential election First person observations from teachers including first year teachers continue to offer vivid authentic pictures of what teaching to change the world means and involves Additional coverage of the ongoing effects of Common Core highlights the heated public discourse around teaching and teachers and charter schools Attention to diversity and inclusion is treated as integral to all chapters woven throughout rather than tacked on as separate units Digging Deeper resources on the new companion website include concrete resources that current and future teachers can use in their classrooms Tools for Critique provides instructors and students questions prompts and activities aimed at encouraging classroom discussion and particularly engaging those students least familiar with the central tenets of social justice education

Sedimentology of Paralic Reservoirs G.J. Hampson,A.D. Reynolds,B. Kostic,M.R. Wells,2017-07-20 Paralic reservoirs reflect a range of depositional environments including deltas shoreline shelf systems and estuaries They provide the backbone of production in many mature basins and contribute significantly to global conventional hydrocarbon production However the range of environments together with relative sea level and sediment supply changes result in significant variability in their stratigraphic architecture and sedimentological heterogeneity which translates into complex patterns of reservoir distribution and production that are challenging to predict optimize and manage This volume presents new research and developments in established approaches to the exploration and production of paralic reservoirs The 13 papers in the volume are grouped into three thematic sections which address the sedimentological characterization of paralic reservoirs using subsurface data lithological heterogeneity in paralic depositional systems arising from the influence of tidal currents and paralic reservoir analogue studies of modern sediments and ancient outcrops The volume demonstrates that heterogeneity in paralic reservoirs is increasingly well understood at all scales but highlights gaps in our knowledge and areas of current research
