The Oxford Handbook of Adolescent Substance Abuse Robert A. Zucker, Sandra A. Brown, 2019-08-01. Adolescent substance abuse is the nation's 1 public health problem. It originates out of a developmental era where experimentation with the world is increasingly taking place and where major changes in physical self and social relationships are taking place. These changes cannot be understood by any one discipline nor can they be described by focusing only on the behavioral and social problems of this age period, the characteristics of normal development, or the pharmacology and addictive potential of specific drugs. They require knowledge of the brain's systems of reward and control, genetics, psychopharmacology, personality, child development, psychopathology, family dynamics, peer group relationships, culture, social policy, and more. Drawing on the expertise of the leading researchers in this field, this Handbook provides the most comprehensive summarization of current knowledge about adolescent substance abuse. The Handbook is organized into eight sections covering the literature on the developmental context of this life period, the epidemiology of adolescent use and abuse, similarities and differences in use, addictive potential, and consequences of use for different drugs, etiology and course as characterized at different levels of mechanistic analysis ranging from the genetic and neural to the behavioural and social. Two sections cover the clinical ramifications of abuse and prevention and intervention strategies to most effectively deal with these problems. The Handbook's last section addresses the role of social policy in framing the problem in addressing it and explores its potential role in alleviating it. The role of parent-child interactions in developmental psychopathology:

methodological and intervention challenges and opportunities Rebecca Pearson, Tamsen Jean Rochat, Bronwyn Coetzee, 2025-03-06 Parenting research has always faced substantial methodological challenges assumptions and stigma limiting understanding and translation to more family centred support In addition the focus of most research has focused on the early years with far less knowledge about the role of parents in pre adolescence adolescence and the transition to adulthood or beyond Parenting work lacks diversity with regards to inclusion across cultural settings and is usually limited to mothers the role of fathers grandparents adoptive and foster parents and step parents is under represented Current advancements in technology and data science as well as cross cohort collaboration enabling pooling of observed parent offspring interaction in larger numbers provides opportunities to bring together new understanding In addition enabling the voice of diverse parents with lived experience throughout the research process will enhance the meaning and interpretation of findings
