This is an open access title available under the terms of a CC BY NC ND 4.0 International licence. It is free to read at Oxford Scholarship Online and offered as a free PDF download from OUP and selected open access locations. All over the world economic inclusion has risen to the top of the development discourse. A well performing education system is central to achieving inclusive development but the challenge of improving educational outcomes has proven to be unexpectedly difficult. Access to education has increased but quality remains low with weaknesses in governance comprising an important part of the explanation. The Politics and Governance of Basic Education explores the balance between hierarchical and horizontal institutional arrangements for the public provision of basic education. Using the vivid example of South Africa, a country that had ambitious goals at the outset of its transition from apartheid to democracy, it explores how the interaction of politics and institutions affects educational outcomes. By examining lessons learned from how South Africa failed to achieve many of its goals, it constructs an innovative alternative strategy for making process combining practical steps to achieve incremental gains to re-orient the system towards learning. 3rd Economic & Social Rights Report, 1999-2000 South African Human Rights Commission, 2001. Perspectives on ICT4D and Socio-Economic Growth Opportunities in Developing Countries Ndayizigamiye, Patrick, Barlow-Jones, Glenda, Brink, Roelien, Bvuma, Stella, Minty, Rehana, Mhlongo, Siyabonga, 2020-10-09. Technology has been hailed as one of the catalysts toward economic and human development. In the current economic era of the Fourth Industrial Revolution, information acquisition, transformation, and dissemination processes are posed to be the key enablers of development. However, in the context of developing countries, there is a need for more evidence on the impact that ICT has on addressing developmental issues. Such evidence is needed to make a case for investments in ICT-led interventions to improve people's lives in developing countries. Perspectives on ICT4D and Socio-Economic Growth Opportunities in Developing Countries is a collection of innovative research on current trends that portray the ICT and development nexus. ICT4D from economic and human development perspectives within developing countries. are equally consequential for African schooling and education When inclusion is understood as wholeness of education then how schooling and education engage the complete learner her his body mind soul and spirit as well as the use of local community and Indigenous knowledges in teaching and learning become relevant Inclusion stands the risk of liberal educational agendas that simply tinker or toy with schooling and education and hardly embrace the challenge of educational change What we need is a fundamental structural change that ensures schooling and education embraces difference while grappling with the teaching of Indigeneity decolonization and resistance Accounting theories, practices, education and human capital formation trends ,2025-09-15

This book aims to provide empirical and conceptual insights into contemporary accounting theories practices education and approaches adopted to advance human capital formation in the discipline Although new accounting practices have emerged in the modern world conceptual and empirical research that provides a holistic comprehensive understanding of these evolutions and human capital approaches used to promote capabilities formation in accounting remains scarce Contemporary research often focuses on developing a framework for integrating accounting practices while coverage of human capital development is limited Instead research strands on accountancy and human capital are growing separately without a comprehensive empirical and conceptual framework for integrating the two concepts Insights on accounting practices and human capital developments are necessary for building a holistic understanding of the two concepts and working towards adopting an interdisciplinary approach The findings in this book seek to advocate for the need to develop highly skilled generations who may meet the requisite accounting and financial capabilities required in the modern global economy This book adopts both conceptual and empirical methods to address the gap in the literature on the need for research that focuses on human capital formation in the accounting and finance discipline It contributes an interdisciplinary perspective on the intersectionality between accounting practice and the human capital formation of individuals who possess the requisite knowledge South African Economic Policy Under
