Land Tax Assessments C.1690-c.1950 ,1986 Land, Labour and Agriculture, 1700-1920 G. E. Mingay,B. A. Holderness,Michael Turner,1991-01-01 The challenges and opportunities offered to British farming by the profound changes of the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries make these years of outstanding interest to the agricultural historian These original essays are presented to Gordon Mingay the most distinguished historian of the Agricultural Revolution and reflect his own interests in three central themes landownership and landed society rural labour and agriculture both as a business and as a way of life The Cadastral Map in the Service of the State Roger J. P. Kain,Elizabeth Baigent,1992 Throughout history the control of land has been the basis of political power Cadastral maps cartographic records of property ownership played an important role in the rise of modern Europe as tools for the consolidation and extension of land based national power The Cadastral Map in the Service of the State A History of Properly Mapping illustrated with 127 maps traces the development and application of rural property mapping in Europe and European colonies from the Renaissance through the nineteenth century The authors go beyond traditional cartographic research approaching the maps as political instruments rather than as simple geographical or historical tools The result is an unprecedented examination of the political and economic forces behind the production of maps and advances in cartography demonstrating how the seemingly neutral science of cartography became a political instrument for national interests Beginning with a review of the roots of cadastral mapping in the Roman Empire the authors concentrate on the use of cadastral maps in the Netherlands France England the Nordic countries the German lands the territories of the Austrian Habsburgs and the European colonies During the seventeenth century governments began to use maps to secure economic and political bases by the nineteenth century these maps had become tools for aggressive governmental control of land as tax bases natural resources and national territories The culmination of extensive bibliographic and archival research made possible by the authors considerable linguistic skills this work draws from source materials in ten languages and spanning five centuries It will remain the definitive source on the subject for years to come The Cadastral Map in the Service of the State was awarded the 1991 Kenneth Nebenzahl Prize for the best new manuscript in the history of cartography A Measure of Wealth Donald E. Ginter,1992 The land tax duplicates which ostensibly provide a complete yearly inventory of all landowners and tenants in every county in the United Kingdom parish by parish are considered the most important systematic documentation available on British landed society between the Domesday Book of 1086 and the New Domesday of 1873 Throughout the past century the duplicates have been central to many questions at the heart of the most heated academic and political concerns but their reliability as historical documentation has not previously been questioned systematically In A Measure of Wealth Donald Ginter launches a sweeping attack with devastating conclusions on the previous uses of the land tax duplicates as the evidential base of many of the leading questions in modern British historiography the decline of the small landowner the impact of enclosure and the study of wealth inequalities The Oxford Companion to Family and Local History David Hey,2010-02-25 The Oxford Companion to Family and Local History is the most authoritative guide available to all things associated with the family and local history of the British Isles It provides practical and contextual information for anyone enquiring into their English Irish Scottish or Welsh origins and for anyone working in genealogical research or the social history of the British Isles This fully revised and updated edition contains over 2 000 entries from adoption to World War records Recommended web links for many entries are accessed and updated via the Family and Local History companion website This edition provides guidance on how to research your family tree using the internet and details the full range of online resources available Newly structured for ease of use thematic articles are followed by the A Z dictionary and detailed appendices which include further reading New articles for this edition are A Guide for Beginners Links between British and American Families Black and Asian Family History and an extended feature on Names With handy research tips a full background to the social history of communities and individuals and an updated appendix listing all national and local record offices with their contact details this is an essential reference work for anyone wanting advice on how to approach genealogical research as well as a fascinating read for anyone interested in the past East Sussex Land Tax, 1785 Roger Davey,1991 Tracing Your Ancestors in the Public Record Office Jane Cox,Timothy Padfield,1984 Sussex Record Society ,2000 Contains Annual report of the Society
