Learning Literacies Through Sports

When thinking about what literacy I wanted to write about I was stumped at first. I could not think about anything that I was truly passionate about and could write a paper on. I then tried to come up with some of the things that have influenced me the most in my life and are the most important to me. I figured I should write about something that I actually cared about. After thinking about what I cared about the most it was easy to see that I should write about sports and learning rugby at UNCC. After all, sports have been the only consistent thing in my life that I have truly enjoyed, learned from, and changed me as a person.

Playing sports have always been a huge part of my life. Now I know this may seem very superficial that I am writing about playing rugby but I look at sports differently than most people. Being on a team is something that I have always loved about playing sports. I can't get enough of the camaraderie of being on a team with all of your best friends. Almost all of my really good friends have been met through sports. There is a special bond that is created with you and your teammates that just cannot be replicated with anyone else. This is one of the main reasons I am writing about playing rugby and being on the rugby team; the literacies I have learned while being on the team have huge importance to me and I would not be the person I am today without them. I have learned many things while playing sports and I believe it has changed me for the better.
