

Mood and Tone

DIRECTIONS: The passage below is from the novel Hard Times by Charles Dickens. Read the passage. Then answer the questions.

So, Mr. M'Choakumchild began in his best manner. He said some one hundred and forty or five schoolmasters had been lately turned out of the same school, in the same factory, on the same pretence, that is to say, upon their legs. He had taken part through an immense variety of papers, and had answered volumes of head-bowing questions. Orthography, etymology, syntax, and prosody, biography, calligraphy, geography, and general cosmography, the solution of compound proportion, algebra, book-keeping and book-binding, vocal music, and drawing from models, were all of the seeds of his firm-chilled fingers. He had walked his bloody way into Her Majesty's most Honourable Privy Council's Schedule B, and had taken the bloom off the highest branches of mathematics and physical science, French, German, Latin, and Greek. He knew all about all the Water Works of all the world (why never there was), and all the histories of all the people, and all the names of all the trees and mountains, and of the productions, manners, and customs of all the countries, and all their soundings and beatings on the sea and thirty parts of the compass. Ah, rather overdone, M'Choakumchild, if he had only learnt a little less, how infinite better he might have taught much more!

1. The tone of the passage is:
a. nostalgic b. pessimistic c. satirical d. ironic
2. The mood of the passage is:
a. humorous b. cautionary c. informative d. mood-softened
3. Which context clue did you use to determine your answer?
