His policy toward the military followed a similar pattern though sometimes military commanders actions affected Wilson s diplomatic goals Benbow focuses on those conflicts between military reality the pragmatic needs of policy and the larger goals of crafting a lasting foreign policy     A Cumulated Index to the Books of .. ,1900     Army Research Task Summary: Engineering sciences and earth sciences United States. Rao,1998-06-25 The three dominant forces shaping societies and economies around the world are globalization privatization and liberalization Because these processes are interrelated they must be addressed collectively The contributors to the volume show that globalization privatization and liberalization are multidimensional phenomena that impact not only the economic considerations of governments but also sociocultural and environmental aspects of societies The three phenomena also affect these units of analysis which Rao and his colleagues identify as regional country industrial and organizational The result is a cogent discussion of these powerful global forces for the academic community professionals in economic development banking finance international investment and global commerce After treating the conceptual issues of meaning definition and differing interpretations and perspectives the volume examines the historical experience with regional economic integration The flow of foreign direct investment a major consequence of globalization privatization and liberalization of economies is considered next This leads to a study of the challenges created for management at the microlevel in organizations such as the intensification of competitiveness and the increased importance of technology and technology management In their examination of country specific issues the contributors show how widely experiences vary with regard to the way in which the three major processes are implemented and how the policies behind them are adopted Finally in their discussion of sectoral and industry specific issues the contributors note that great variations on how different industrial sectors and industries will approach and recreate themselves under the power of the three great processes
