NAME: _____

Amoeba Sisters Video SELECT Recap: Incomplete Dominance, Codominance, Polygenic Traits, and Epistasis (Non-Mendelian Inheritance)

In some guinea pigs, having hair is associated with the presence of a dominant allele "H." Guinea pigs that do not have the dominant allele "H." This is a Mendelian trait.

1. Draw a Punnett square with a Mendelian cross between two guinea pigs that are Hh x Hh.

Mendelian Trait

HH = HH

hh

2. According to your work, complete the following phenotype ratios: 3 Have Hair: 1 Hairless

3. According to your work, complete the following genotype ratios: 1 HH: 2 Hh: 1 hh

4. The traits covered in this video are also Mendelian traits, unlike E1. What does E mean for a trait to be non-Mendelian?

Non-Mendelian Traits

Non-mendelian traits don't follow the rules that the dominant allele is expressed over the recessive allele.

5. Describe how incomplete dominance and codominance, two non-Mendelian traits, are different from each other.

Incomplete dominance occurs when the dominant allele isn't fully expressed over the recessive allele.
Codominance happens when two dominant alleles are expressed together.

6. There are a variety of ways to represent the alleles for incomplete dominance, codominance, and other non-Mendelian traits. Many times, there are different pros and cons for how alleles are represented as well as different preferences. How do you plan to represent the alleles for incomplete dominance and codominance, and how are you planning to keep them separate in your mind?

In incomplete dominance the dominant allele can't fully express itself when the recessive allele is around.
during Codominance both the genes are dominant and are expressed together.

7. Pleiotropy, not discussed in the video, is when just one gene can affect several traits. How is this vocabulary term different from a polygenic trait, which is discussed in the video?

Pleiotropy is when one gene affects several traits. Polygenic traits are when multiple genes code for one trait.
