Mounting Location

1. Consider areas or locations designated by the aircraft manufacturer. Do not mount the strobe power supply closer than three (3) feet of the ADF loop.
2. For alternate locations, consider areas such as the cabin baggage compartment, the floor under the seat, non-structural bulkheads, firewalls, etc.
3. If necessary, fabricate support brackets or shelves, and attach them to the aircraft structure to provide a mounting surface that will withstand the inertia forces stipulated in chapters 1 & 3 of AC 43.13-2A.
4. An "M" or other representative of the FAA must approve documentation of structural integrity of the fabricated installation.
5. When installing the strobe light power supply in an inverted position, drill a 3/16" diameter hole in the lowest corner of the cover to provide for moisture drainage. Care must be taken not to let the drill protrude into the power supply, for it will inflict damage to the electronic components.
6. Specifically call out the location of the strobe light power supply of PMA form 30P.

2. Shielded wire is not generally necessary, but has proven effective in reducing the possibility of radio interference.
3. The power supply shall acquire its power from a low impedance source such as the alternator or generator and of the electrical bus as close to the battery as possible.
4. For penetrating pressure hull, refer to the aircraft service manual.
5. Check all avionics systems for interference.
