

A promotional poster for the TV series 'The Gentlemen'. The scene is set in a grand, dimly lit room with a large painting of a landscape on the wall. In the foreground, a man in a brown tweed suit sits relaxed on a red leather sofa, holding a glass of whisky. Behind him, a woman in a red velvet dress stands with her arms crossed, holding a cigarette. To the right, a man in a brown suit and flat cap holds a small white object, while another man in a grey suit stands behind him. In the lower right, a person in a blue winter coat and a colorful beanie is crawling on the floor. On the far right, a large, detailed rooster is superimposed over the scene. The overall tone is sophisticated yet gritty.

Christopher Wordsworth, 1839      Social Science Quotations Robert Merton, 2018-04-27 Social Science Quotations has been prepared to meet an evident unmet need in the literature of the social sciences Writings on the lives and theories of individual social scientists abound but there has been no fully documented collection of memorable quotations from the social sciences as a whole The frequent use of quotations in scientific as well as literary writings that are mere summaries or paraphrases typically fail to capture the full force of formulations that have made quotations memorable This book of quotations invites the further reading or rereading of the original texts beyond the quotations themselves Sills and Merton draw extensively upon the writings that constitute the historical core of the social sciences and social thought those works with staying power often described as the classical texts Many quotations have been drawn from these classical texts because the quotations contain memorable ideas memorably expressed Both consequential and memorable these words have been quoted over the generations entering into the collective memory of social scientists everywhere and at times diffusing into popular thought and into the vernacular as well This book is useful to social scientists anthropologists economists historians political scientists psychiatrists psychologists sociologists and statisticians and for all who want to learn or verify memorable formulations and phrases concerning social thought and social theories It is particularly useful for graduate students taking courses that examine the history of their discipline      Book Review Digest, 1913
