Rio de Janeiro in the Global Meat Market, c. 1850 to c. 1930 Maria-Aparecida Lopes, 2021-07-19 This book examines the meat provision system of Rio de Janeiro from the 1850s to the 1930s Until the 1920s Rio was Brazil's economic hub main industrial city and prime consumer market Meat consumption was an indicator of living standards and a matter of public concern The work unveils that in the second half of the nineteenth century the city was well supplied with red meat Initially dwellers relied mostly on salted meat then in the latter decades of the 1800s two sets of changes upgraded fresh meat deliveries First ranching expansion and transportation innovation in southeast and central west Brazil guaranteed a continuous flow of cattle to Rio Second the municipal centralization of meat processing and distribution made its provision regular and predictable By the early twentieth century fresh meat replaced salted meat in the urban marketplace This study examines these developments in light of national and global developments in the livestock and meat industries Farmingdale State College Frank J. Cyber Espionage and International Law Russell Buchan, 2018-12-27 The advent of cyberspace has led to a dramatic increase in state sponsored political and economic espionage This monograph argues that these practices represent a threat to the maintenance of international peace and security and assesses the extent to which international law regulates this conduct The traditional view among international legal scholars is that in the absence of direct and specific international law on the topic of espionage cyber espionage constitutes an extra legal activity that is unconstrained by international law This monograph challenges that assumption and reveals that there are general principles of international law as well as specialised international legal regimes that indirectly regulate cyber espionage In terms of general principles of international law this monograph explores how the rules of territorial sovereignty non intervention and the non use of force apply to cyber espionage In relation to specialised regimes this monograph investigates the role of diplomatic and consular law international human rights law and the law of the World Trade Organization in addressing cyber espionage This monograph also examines whether developments in customary international law have carved out espionage exceptions to those international legal rules that otherwise prohibit cyber espionage as well as considering whether the doctrines of self defence and necessity can be invoked to justify cyber espionage Notwithstanding the applicability of international law this monograph concludes that policymakers should nevertheless devise an international law of espionage which as lex specialis contains rules that are specifically designed to confront the growing threat posed by cyber espionage
