

Alfa Romeo Selespeed

Introduction

The concept of the Selespeed transmission system for Alfa Romeo 147 follows the aim already developed on the Alfa Romeo 156 from which it originates. The aim is to improve performance of the manual gearbox transmission components. To avoid that the driver has to check the clutch pedal and the gear control lever but at the same time ensuring the driving pleasure that comes from direct control of transmission. To improve driving safety by a direct control that foresees the errors of the driver and prevents an incorrect control of the transmission system. Offers the driver a more advanced car interface. It should be remembered that the system essentially consists of a mechanical transmission, with dry monodisk clutch and synchronised mechanical gear, moved by hydraulic power. As previously with the Alfa Romeo 156, neither the clutch nor the gearbox is changed to install the hydraulic actuators that control the stroke of the clutch and the gear engagement and selection. An electronic control unit manages a complex functioning logic that permits the use of the gearbox:

- in "semi-automatic" conditions, where the driver controls the gear engagement by the lever on the tunnel or with two push-buttons.
- in "automatic" mode, called "City" that assigns the decision to change gear to the electronic system. The clutch pedal has been eliminated, the traditional "H" gear lever of manual transmission has been replaced by a specific "Joystick" lever and two "UP-DOWN" buttons on the steering wheel.
