Service Learning as Pedagogy in Early Childhood Education Kelly L. Heider, 2016-10-14 This book presents the most recent theory research and practice on service learning as it relates to early childhood education It describes several service learning programs many of which were developed to better prepare pre service teachers for the challenges they face in today's early childhood classrooms including class size ever changing technology diversity high stakes testing parental involvement or the lack thereof and shrinking budgets The book shares stories of positive outcomes from pre service teachers who having participated in service learning programs report a shift in their attitudes and beliefs including an increased empathy for others a heightened sensitivity to student differences more democratic values and a greater commitment to teaching In addition the book examines the effects of service learning and positive outcomes for children and teacher educators as well Schools today face an increasing number of language learners the mainstreaming of special population students and working with a standards driven curriculum All of these present new challenges for teachers as they attempt to meet their students educational needs As a result of this new classroom environment and the educational needs they present teacher educators must now seek different approaches to prepare prospective teachers to meet these needs because the traditional approaches to teacher preparation such as coursework independent of fieldwork are no longer effective in equipping teachers to address these issues This book examines in detail the new approach of service learning Handbook of Reading Disability Research Anne McGill-Franzen, Richard Allington, 2010-09-17 Bringing together a wide range of research on reading disabilities this comprehensive Handbook extends current discussion and thinking beyond a narrowly defined psychometric perspective Emphasizing that learning to read proficiently is a long term developmental process involving many interventions of various kinds all keyed to individual developmental needs it addresses traditional questions What is the nature or causes of reading disabilities How are reading disabilities assessed How should reading disabilities be remediated To what extent is remediation possible but from multiple or alternative perspectives Taking incursions into the broader research literature represented by linguistic and anthropological paradigms as well as psychological and educational research the volume is on the front line in exploring the relation of reading disability to learning and language to poverty and prejudice and to instruction and schooling The editors and authors are distinguished scholars with extensive research experience and publication records and numerous honors and awards from professional organizations representing the range of disciplines in the field of reading disabilities Throughout their contributions are contextualized within the framework of educators struggling to develop concrete instructional practices that meet the learning needs of the lowest achieving readers The Gradual Release of Responsibility in Literacy Research and Practice Mary McVee,Evan Ortlieb,Jennifer Reichenberg,P. David Pearson,2019-08-26 This edited volume discusses how the Gradual Release of Responsibility model evolved and has been applied how it benefits learners and teachers and how it can be utilised for years to come Competitor or Ally? Gerald K. LeTendre,2013-06-17 In this book the authors systematically address the most common stereotypes or myths about Japanese education that are currently being circulated in the popular press teaching magazines and educational research journals The authors show how arguments about Japan are used to further political ends within the American educational debate Some of the myths that the book debunks are Japan s high adolescent suicide rate LeTendre and Zeng show that adolescent suicide among males is now twice as high in the U S as in Japan Tsuchida and Lewis take on the myth of Japanese classrooms as crowded places centered on rote learning providing detailed evidence as to why Japanese students may indeed have an edge in math McConnell uses Japan s highly successful foreign language program to deconstruct images of Japan Inc showing the highly fractious and bitter political debates that occur in Japan Yang provides data on differences in Japanese and American teachers work roles showing that differences in the two educational systems are not simply due to cultural differences but have a basis in educational policy and school organization Shimizu offers an alternative view of achievement motivation among Japanese students based on in depth interviews with Japanese teens Teaching and Learning in Japan Thomas P. Homework, Learning and Academic Success: The Role of Family and Contextual Variables Antonio Valle,Susana Rodríguez,Pedro Rosário,Mar Lorenzo Moledo,2020-02-24 The main purpose of this Research Topic is to analyze and identify the main family and contextual variables that are involved in the process of carrying out homework This will require studying the role played by teachers students and families in order to ensure that schoolwork is a useful learning tool Although the role of the student is obviously crucial in homework research has focused on the cumulative time spent by the student carrying out homework However the time spent on homework is not in itself evidence of the student s involvement nor is time spent indicative of quality time Indeed an excess of time can sometimes denote low competence in a field of knowledge while spending less time on homework could be indicative of high competence It is more likely that a high dedication of time spent on homework reflects high motivation or comprehension deficits rather than commitment to learning or academic motivation In tandem with the role of the student teachers as responsible for prescribing homework assignments for students also become central players in the process of completing homework assignments The decisions that teachers make about homework prescriptions and the amount and type of tasks they set will determine to a large extent the quality of the homework process including the student s motivation and the student s level of engagement with homework Furthermore the fact that homework is useful interesting and motivating for students will depend on how the teacher prescribes those tasks and the connection established with classroom learning Teacher feedback also acquires particular relevance for this point by helping the students to accurately estimate the quality of their progress and overcome the difficulties they may have encountered in carrying out their homework Lastly the effectiveness of teacher feedback depends on its contribution to the student s educational progress and how that student will perform in the future In addition to the student who performs the task and the teacher who prescribes and corrects it we must not lose sight of parents role Although there are discrepancies regarding the role that parents play in relation to homework it is evident that their implication has important consequences not only on the final result of those tasks but also on the very process of carrying them out Everything seems to indicate that the family environment and more specifically the support and feedback provided by parents is a factor that can determine the involvement of students in school duties In this way providing emotional support encouraging children to get involved can contribute positively to improving their motivation and interest in the performance of homework The objective of this Research Topic is to provide researchers and professionals in psychology and education settings with some of the most recent empirical evidence regarding the homework process its prescription and correction Overall we aim to cease making homework a source of conflict and controversy at the socio educational level in order to provide useful instruments for improving the quality of student learning This work was developed with the financing of the research projects EDU2013 44062 P MINECO EDU2017 82984 P MEIC
