presents several articles from a process of contemplation on God while keeping in mind the words of Raimon Panikkar a discourse on God is a discourse that inevitably only completes itself again in a new silence And so if the discourse is to continue which is un avoidable and moreover necessary and the new silence is not or has not yet been achieved this means one has to try to explore various other already existing contemplations on God and faith Even though I do not belong to the camp of those who accept Heidegger s the God of the philoso phers I think philosophy is necessary to be employed here

Faith-based Radicalism Christiane Timmerman,2007 Terror attacks against Western symbols of power suicide terrorism in Chechnya or bombing of abortion clinics in the United States these are a few of the violent religious outbursts that the media never seem to stop broadcasting While these outbursts are mostly linked to Islamic extremism it should however be acknowledged that every religion has its own violent side Despite all the events the media are too prompt to show us it would be dishonest and insensible not to accept that every religion has also a potential for religious peace building and communal renewal How can it be explained then that religions sometimes react violently against the society surrounding them by trying to overthrow it while at some other times they willingly help and try to build a better world for everyone The University Centre Saint Ignatius Antwerp organised an interdisciplinary summer seminar in September 2005 and gathered senior scholars all experts in their own fields and junior scholars who will be the experts of tomorrow from all over the world to discuss these burning issues The seminar focused on miscellaneous topics all pointing towards the question of religion and society like literalism and the Holy texts the ambivalence of faith based radicalism the psychology of religion and terrorism nationalism and religion and religious social movements Publisher     An Essay toward the Amendment of the last English translation of the Bible. Tradition and the Rule of Faith in the Early Church Alexander Y. Hwang, 2010 The meaning of tradition is broad It can refer to the deposit of faith or the Apostolic Tradition to Scripture as the most perfect expression of what is handed over from Christ or to the disciplinary and liturgical practices of the Church It can also refer more broadly to those theological and doctrinal teachings inherited by one generation of ecclesiastical writers and passed on to another generation of theological heirs The Fathers themselves were always acutely aware of the traditions they stood within and especially of their relation to the Apostolic Tradition Tradition and the rule of faith are particularly apt themes for this collection of studies The essays are written in honor of Joseph T Lienhard S J renowned American patristic scholar whose research and writings have focused on this particular theme The volume brings together some of the most prominent scholars from the U S and abroad specializing in different areas of patristic studies to address tradition and the rule of faith

Sartre on Sin Kate Kirkpatrick, 2017-10-20 Sartre on Sin Between Being and Nothingness argues that Jean Paul Sartre's early anti humanist philosophy is indebted to the Christian doctrine of original sin On the standard reading Sartre's most fundamental and attractive idea is freedom he wished to demonstrate the existence of human freedom and did so by connecting consciousness with nothingness Focusing on Being and Nothingness Kate Kirkpatrick demonstrates that Sartre's concept of nothingness le n ant has a Christian genealogy which has been overlooked in philosophical and theological discussions of his work Previous scholars have noted the resemblance between Sartre's and Augustine's ontologies to name but one shared theme both thinkers describe the human as the being through which nothingness enters the world However there has been no previous in depth examination of this resemblance Using historical exegetical and conceptual methods Kirkpatrick demonstrates that Sartre's intellectual formation prior to his discovery of phenomenology included theological elements especially concerning the compatibility of freedom with sin and grace After outlining the French Augustinianisms by which Sartre's account of the human as between being and nothingness was informed Kirkpatrick offers a close reading of Being and Nothingness which shows that the psychological epistemological and ethical consequences of Sartre's Le Nant closely resemble the consequences of its theological predecessor and that his account of freedom can be read as an anti-theodicy. Sartre on Sin illustrates that Sartre's insights are valuable resources for contemporary hamartiology.
