becoming less and less important The high quality of integrated cameras means that the smartphone is increasingly used for photography As well as with photos users trust their devices with their most personal communications such as Facebook WhatsApp and email This brings some risks with it as such usage makes the smartphone interesting for criminals who attempt to infect the device with malware or steal personal data There is also the danger brought by phishing attacks These days the use of security software on a PC or laptop is seen as essential However many smartphone users do not yet have the same sense of responsibility even though their devices store personal data private photos Internet banking information or even company data As modern smartphones are often expensive to buy they are also an attractive target for thieves Top quality smartphones cost several hundred Euros As it is not possible to physically prevent them from being stolen they must be made less attractive to thieves Consequently many of today s security products contain not only malware protection but also highly developed theft protection functions which make the device less attractive to thieves e g by locking the device and help the owner to find it again

An Introduction to Optical Wireless Mobile Communication Harald Haas, Mohamed Sufyan Islim, Cheng Chen, Hanaa Abumarshoud, 2021-09-30

The use of the optical spectrum for wireless communications has gained significant interest in recent years. Applications range from low rate simplex transmission links using existing embedded CMOS cameras in smartphones referred to as optical camera communications (OCC), mobile light fidelity (LiFi) networking in homes, offices, urban and sub-sea environments to free space gigabit interconnects in data centers and point-to-point long range wireless backhaul links outdoors and in space. This exciting book focuses on the use of optical wireless communications (OWC) for mobile use cases. The book discusses existing conventional radio frequency (RF) based wireless access technology and presents the challenges that can impact the requirements of the future wave of new wireless services in the context of artificial intelligence (AI) driven autonomous systems and machine type communications. The relationship between visible light communications (VLC) and light fidelity (LiFi) is explored and the major advantages of VLC and LiFi such as security and data density and discuss existing research challenges are also introduced. Channel modeling techniques are provided for mobile multiuser scenarios and will introduce key building blocks to achieve LiFi cellular networks achieving orders of magnitude improvements of area spectral efficiency compared to state-of-the-art. Challenges that arise from moving from a static point-to-point visible light link to a LiFi network that is capable of serving hundreds of mobile and fixed nodes are discussed. An overview of recent standardization activities and the commercialization challenges of this disruptive technology is also provided.
