Cybernetic Architectures Camilo Andrés Cifuentes Quin, 2021-07-29 For the past 50 years the advancements of technology have equipped architects with unique tools that have enabled the development of new computer mediated design methods fabrication techniques and architectural expressions Simultaneously in contemporary architecture new frameworks emerged that have radically redefined the traditional conceptions of design of the built environment and of the role of architects Cybernetic Architectures argues that such frameworks have been constructed in direct reference to cybernetic thinking a thought model that emerged concurrently with the origins of informatics and that embodies the main assumptions values and ideals underlying the development of computer science The book explains how the evolution of the computational perspective in architecture has been parallel to the construction of design issues in reference to the central ideas fostered by the cybernetic model It unpacks and explains this crucial relationship in the work of digital architects between the use of information technology in design and the conception of architectural problems around an informational ontology This book will appeal to architecture students and scholars interested in understanding the recent transformations in the architectural landscape related to the advent of computer based design paradigms

Sustainable architecture and complex design Marcello Pazzaglini, 2015-08-04 Today it is more vital than ever to build or restore a sustainable quality in our environment from small scale interventions to landscape design Such result can only be achieved by addressing specific theoretical and practical issues namely how complexity should be conceived in architecture how nature and architecture should interrelate how the various disciplinary processes and the subjects who contribute to construction should be managed and mutually integrated The New Structuralism Rivka Oxman, Robert Oxman, 2010-08-23 Today the convergence of design engineering and architectural technologies is breeding a new material practice in experimental architecture The significant emphasis on the structuring logic of tectonics is resulting in a new structuralism in design In this pioneering publication this important shift is fully defined as a highly dynamic synthesis of emerging principles of spatial structural and material ordering integrated through the application of materialisation and fabrication technologies Providing the foundations for a new theory of structuring in architecture the new structuralism has broad implications for the way we both conceive and undertake architectural design as its impact starts to emanate not only across education internationally but also through architectural research and practice Features premier research and design oriented engineering practices Bollinger Grohmann Buro Happold Hanif Kara AKT Werner Sobek Focuses on design and fabrication technologies in the recent work of Martin Bechthold Barkow Leibinger EMBT Enric Miralles Benedetta Tagliabue Gramazio Kohler Fabian Scheurer designtoproduction Yves Weinand and Markus Hudert Contributors include John Chilton Dominik Holzer and Steven Downing Neri Oxman Helmut Pottmann Nina Rappaport Decoration Emily Abruzzo, Jonathan D. Crossover Cecil Balmond, 2013 In this long awaited follow up to the enormously popular informal designer writer and engineer Cecil Balmond invites readers into his creative process as he documents his most innovative projects in art architecture and bridge design Hailed by friend and frequent collaborator Rem Koolhaas as having almost single handedly shifted the ground in engineering and enabled architecture to be imagined differently Cecil Balmond has achieved special status as a pioneer in cross disciplinary thinking Balmond s instinctual understanding and manipulation of forces has paved the way for generations of designers to break free from traditional systems of organization and embrace the non linear Crossover establishes and galvanizes these radical ideas in the emergence of new forms and contemporary aesthetics This crucial new book outlines more than a dozen international projects and five theoretical chapters that embody the notion of Crossover which Balmond describes as the movement between Metaphor and Substance through Pattern Navigating between the ideal and the pragmatic Balmond creates balance between the poetic and the essential Crossover presents Balmond's thoughts and musings and charts his conceptual journey from the original fleeting idea to finished product Photographs drawings and plans for each project accompany never seen before journal notes sketches and in depth commentary The book includes the Weave Bridge at the University of Pennsylvania the Serpentine Gallery Pavilions at London's Kensington Gardens ArcelorMittal Orbit at the site of the London 2012 Olympics and the world renowned CCTV tower in Beijing
