Early Maternal and Child Health Management and the Impact of Living Environment Hong Lu, Lihua Ren, Kathleen Marion Baird, Jiasi Yao, 2025-08-08

Maternal and newborn health stands as a pivotal force in societal progress aligning with the United Nations Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) that aim to diminish maternal mortality, reduce morbidity, and eliminate preventable deaths among women and infants. Over the past few decades, this field has burgeoned into a critical area of study, garnering attention from various disciplines such as obstetrics, gynecology, midwifery, nursing, psychology, and psychiatry. Evidence-based practices have catalyzed improvements in various health domains, ranging from managing complex pregnancies to fostering natural labor progression, promoting breastfeeding, and nurturing early parenthood. In light of contemporary global challenges, environmental alterations emerge as predominant health concerns, significantly amplifying the vulnerability of women and infants. Issues like climate change, indoor and outdoor air pollution, and emerging environmental pollutants have spurred substantial attention towards the interaction between the environment and maternal child health. Adverse environmental exposures may directly affect the health of mothers and children, perpetuating intergenerational consequences.
