Historiography: Culture Robert M. Burns, 2006 This collection aims to enable the reader to disentangle some of the ambiguities and confusions which have characterized the use of the term historiography History as a Kind of Writing Philippe Carrard, 2017-03-07 In academia the traditional role of the humanities is being questioned by the posts postmodernism poststructuralism and postfeminism which means that the project of writing history only grows more complex In History as a Kind of Writing scholar of French literature and culture Philippe Carrard speaks to this complexity by focusing the lens on the current state of French historiography Carrard's work here is expansive examining the conventions historians draw on to produce their texts and casting light on views put forward by literary theorists theorists of history and historians themselves Ranging from discussions of lengthy dissertations on 1960s social and economic history to a more contemporary focus on events actors memory and culture the book digs deep into the how of history How do historians arrange their data into narratives What strategies do they employ to justify the validity of their descriptions Are actors given their own voice Along the way Carrard also readdresses questions fundamental to the field including its necessary membership in the narrative genre the presumed objectivity of historiographic writing and the place of history as a science distinct from the natural and theoretical sciences

Sick Heroes Allan H. Pasco, 1997 Making use of new research materials Sick Heroes offers fresh insight into the romantic spirit It sheds light on the particular creations of the romantic world on the causes for Romanticism on French Romanticism as an aesthetic and social reality and on the period's collective mentality

Threads and Traces Carlo Ginzburg, 2012-01-09 Carlo Ginzburg's brilliant and timely new essay collection takes a bold stand against naive positivism and allegedly sophisticated neo-skepticism It looks deeply into questions raised by decades of post-structuralism What constitutes historical truth How do we draw a boundary between truth and fiction What is the relationship between history and memory How do we grapple with the historical conventions that inform in different ways all written documents In his answers Ginzburg peels away layers of subsequent readings and interpretations that envelop every text to make a larger argument about history and fiction Interwoven with compelling autobiographical references Threads and Traces bears moving witness to Ginzburg's life as a European Jew the abiding strength of his scholarship and his deep engagement with the historian's craft Le Mai 68 des historiens Agnès Callu, 2010-06 Cet ouvrage questionne les héritages de Mai 68 pour les outils de la recherche la circulation des connaissances les renouvellements historiques et la refondation des structures de transmissions des savoirs
