Ten Most Popular Myths and Misconceptions Top Ten Forms of Resistance Top Ten Military Blunders Japan's Contested War Memories Philip A. Seaton, 2007-03-12 Japan's Contested War Memories is an important and significant book that explores the struggles within contemporary Japanese society to come to terms with Second World War history. Focusing particularly on 1972 onwards, the period starts with the normalization of relations with China and the return of Okinawa to Japan in 1972 and ends with the sixtieth anniversary commemorations. Analyzing the variety of ways in which the Japanese people narrate, contest and interpret the past, the book is also a major critique of the way the subject has been treated in much of the English language. Philip Seaton concludes that war history in Japan today is more divisive and widely argued over than in any of the other major Second World War combatant nations. Providing a sharp contrast to the many orthodox statements about Japanese ignorance, amnesia and denial about the war, this is an engaging and illuminating study that will appeal to scholars and students of Japanese history, politics, cultural studies, society and memory theory. Local History

and War Memories in Hokkaido Philip A. Seaton, 2015-07-24 Hokkaido, the northernmost island of Japan, barely features in most histories of the Second World War. However, the combination of distinctive war experiences, a vibrant set of local historian groups and powerful media organizations disseminating local war history has generated an identifiable set of local collective memories. Hokkaido's status as an early colonial acquisition also makes the island an important vantage point from which to reassess the course and nature of the Japanese Empire. This book argues that Hokkaido's experiences of war and its militarized post-war constitute a local case study with a much greater national and international significance on both theoretical and empirical grounds than first impressions might suggest. Using Japanese language sources presented for the first time in English and a number of detailed local history case studies, it offers a fascinating and hitherto little known perspective on the Second World War. It also combines a comprehensive theory of how war memories operate at the local level within a broad historical context that explains Hokkaido's pivotal role within Japanese imperial history. Demonstrating that understanding local history and memories is essential for a nuanced understanding of national history and memories, the book will be highly valuable to students and scholars of Japanese history, Second World War history and Asian history.

Revisioning History Robert A. Rosenstone, 2020-03-31 In Revisioning History, thirteen historians from around the world look at the historical film on its own terms, not as it compares to written history, but as a unique way of recounting the past. How does film construct a historical world? What are the rules, codes and strategies by which it brings the past to life? What does that historical construction mean to us? In grappling with these questions, each contributor looks at an example of New History cinema. Different from Hollywood costume dramas or documentary films, these films are serious efforts to come to grips with the past; they have often grown out of nations engaged in an intense quest for historical connections, such as India, Cuba, Japan and Germany. The volume begins with an introduction by Robert Rosenstone. Part I, Contesting History, comprises essays by Geoff Eley on the film Distant Voices, Still Lives, Nicholas B. Dirks The Home and the World, Thomas Kierstead and

Instrumentalizing the Past Jan Rydel, Stefan Troebst, 2022-09-20 In today s world we can point to many international disputes and interstate conflicts fueled by past events Historical resentments or memories of past suffering or fame are often used to justify political economic and terms with past reigns of terror and collective violence Designed for undergraduate courses in political violence and revolution this volume treats a wide variety of incidents of collective violence from decades long genocide to short lived massacres The selection of essays provides a broad range of thought provoking case studies from Latin America Africa Europe and Asia This provocative collection of readings from around the world will spur debate and discussion of this timely and important topic in the classroom and beyond
