The Department for Children, Schools and Families and the Children's Plan Great Britain: Parliament: House of Commons: Children, Schools and Families Committee, 2008 This second report entitled The Department for Children Schools and Families and the Children s Plan HCP 213 session 2007 08 ISBN 9780215514691 from the Children Schools and Families Committee examines the creation of the new Department for Children Schools and Families The Department has sole responsibility for early years education and the schooling of children between 5 and 13 but in other areas such as education for 14 19 year olds it operates jointly with other Government departments in partcular the Department for Innovation Universities and Skills The Committee welcomes the Departmental focus on children but expresses some reservations in regard of joint responsibility which it sees as leading to a lack of clarity in regard of responsibility and a dilution in decision making The Committee believes clarity on which Department has specific responsibility is important particularly with the introduction of the new Diploma system for 14 19 year olds Also the Departments Children s Plan does not at present have a timetable of action or a clear set of priorities and that the Department needs to be explicit on how it intends to drive improvements in services for children and familes In total the Committee has set out 14 conclusions and recommendations covering the new Department the Children s Plan Public Service Agreements schools funding efficiency and productivity

Introducing the IB Diploma Programme Marc Abrioux, Jill Rutherford, 2013-02-14 Schools wishing to introduce the IB diploma programme are faced with major investment in terms of time effort and money in order to become authorised This manual is a resource for schools already offering the diploma as well as for prospective diploma schools Making a Difference Gerry Brown, 2020-12-16 Are you one of the many people in this world who want to make a difference What if you could make a real lasting difference to your community and change the lives of thousands The answer is to become an independent director ID Independent directors play a vital role in governing health services charities sporting bodies and educational establishments and can be especially effective in times of great change and uncertainty Not only do they play a crucial role in steering and developing strategy and managing risk they are also the key to ensuring accountability They are the people who ensure these organisations properly serve all of their stakeholders be it employees customers or the wider society They are the real long term custodians of organisations Now more than ever these organisations are crying out for diverse committed and engaged independent directors The demand for impartial input is greater than ever before There is no better time to step up and make a difference Gerry Brown s Making a Difference is the essential guide to becoming an ID what to expect in that position and what you can achieve once you are one This book will inspire you to put yourself forward take a seat at the table and get involved in organisational change Democratising independent directorship is a powerful way to help transform policies from within and change things for the better A Better World is Possible Georgina Ferry, 2017-09-07 On 17 March 1967 the 26 year old David Sainsbury wrote out a cheque for 5 and established the trust which would become the Gatsby Charitable Foundation Gatsby's purpose was ambitious to make the world a better place by taking on some of the social economic and scientific challenges that face humanity In recent years Gatsby has spent around 50m annually on charitable activities and by its 50th anniversary in 2017 it will have spent over 1bn on programmes that range from reducing poverty in Africa to raising the standard of technical education investigating how plants fight disease and finding out how the brain works But despite Gatsby's wide reach and the level of its donations it has always functioned discreetly and out of the public eye Georgina Ferry's in depth account reveals its achievements and invites us to question how the super rich and even the moderately affluent might spend their money more wisely and for the common good

Science Teaching in Schools Great Britain: Parliament: House of Lords: Science and Technology Committee, 2006-11-05 The Committee's report examines science and mathematics teaching in secondary schools in England focusing on the following issues the take up of science and mathematics at GCSE and A level the provision of careers advice to students problems in the recruitment and retention of teachers the quality of teaching methods and the role of continuing professional development The Committee finds that effective science teaching in schools is essential both in order to ensure a satisfactory general level of scientific literacy in society and to enable the next generation of scientists and engineers to progress into higher education and beyond It argues that the current examination system forces students to study an excessively narrow range of subjects at too early an age and it recommends that the Government should reconsider the Tomlinson proposals for a broader diploma based system for 14-19 year old students based on the International Baccalaureate This would ensure that students receive a more rounded education and are not made to over specialise before they are able to see the merits of studying science and mathematics Concerns are also raised about the shortage of science teachers particularly specialist physics and chemistry teachers the quality of careers advice in schools and the importance of practical science in schools

Students in UK Further Education Rosemary A. Reynolds, 2017-12-15 Chinese students in the UK have been increasing in number for many years yet competition from other Western educators and increasing investment in China's own education system has led to concern that UK institutions may soon see a decline in their market share Dr Reynolds addresses this issue in Chinese Students in UK Further Education by attempting to understand students' experiences from their perspective Beginning with an exploration of why these students choose to come and study in the UK and why they are coming at younger ages the book goes on to discuss topics such as risk technology and diversity in order to understand which factors have the greatest influence on where they choose to study and whether they choose to remain at an institution Drawing on data from two different education institutions providers of GCSE A level programmes for students aged 16 18 years Dr Reynolds attempts to understand what these students experience during their studies how they manage new social relationships and whether upon course completion they achieved the results they desired at the outset Moreover the book aims to ascertain whether the students feel in hindsight that the decision to risk investing in UK further education was right and what they might communicate about UK study to contacts in China and elsewhere The book examines what further education institutions do well and where they might improve to help develop Chinese students educational experiences As such it will be essential reading for academics researchers and postgraduates in the fields of further education sociology of education international and intercultural education and mobility studies
