The book has two overarching goals. The first goal is to introduce different available numerical procedures for finding solutions to linear equations roots of polynomial equations interpolation and approximation numerical differentiation and integration differential equations and error analysis. The second goal is to translate theory into practice through applying commonly used numerical methods in mathematics physical sciences biomedical sciences and engineering. This book was crafted in an informal and user friendly manner to motivate the study of the material being covered. Over the past two decades the structural diversity of DNA forms has been proven to have profound implications in various biological neurological and pharmacological events. In response researchers have since made tremendous efforts to obtain highly active drugs interacting with disease related non canonical DNA structures. These drugs however have not yet been approved for clinical use. One obstacle impeding their clinical application has to do with selectivity. This book focuses on secondary DNA structures formed by trinucleotide repeat sequences hairpin form or guanine rich sequences G quadruplex form both of which are pathological molecules for neurodegenerative diseases and or cancer. Most importantly it contends that a particular secondary structure of DNA in the context of the human genome can be targeted with a minimal affinity to other DNA structures by means of careful and rational ligand design. This approach opens an avenue to the development of highly selective drugs or diagnostic chemical tools for human diseases. Readers who want to know how synthetic ligands can be designed to selectively target a certain DNA molecule will find this book highly informative
