Genetics: History

Genetics Joins Evolutionary Theory

Gregor Mendel's original ideas on how hereditary information is passed:

- 1. Hereditary information that comes from parents are controlled by genes and that these genes have a hereditary basis in cells. The hereditary information is an individual's genotype. Genotype is the genetic information that is passed on to offspring.
- 2. Genes are passed on from one generation to the next. Individuals of a population share a common gene pool of genes, which is the gene pool.
- 3. Allele frequency: is the number of copies of an allele in a gene pool. Allele frequency is the number of copies of an allele in a gene pool. Allele frequency is the number of copies of an allele in a gene pool. Allele frequency is the number of copies of an allele in a gene pool.

Examples of Genetic Variation Hereditary variation is the variation in the genetic information that is passed on to offspring. This variation is the result of mutations, which are changes in the DNA sequence.

- 1. A mutation is a change in the sequence of DNA.
- 2. Some mutations are beneficial, some are harmful, and some are neutral. The effect of a mutation depends on the environment. A mutation that is beneficial in one environment may be harmful in another.
- 3. A mutation that is beneficial in one environment may be harmful in another. A mutation that is beneficial in one environment may be harmful in another.

Single Gene and Polygenic Traits Hereditary variation is the variation in the genetic information that is passed on to offspring. This variation is the result of mutations, which are changes in the DNA sequence.

- 1. A single gene trait is controlled by one gene. An example is the trait of eye color.
- 2. A polygenic trait is controlled by more than one gene. An example is the trait of height.

Genetics Joins Evolutionary Theory

The Hardy-Weinberg Law describes the relationship between the frequency of alleles in a population.

- 1. The frequency of alleles in a population is constant. Allele frequency is the frequency of an allele in a population.
- 2. The frequency of alleles in a population is constant. Allele frequency is the frequency of an allele in a population.
- 3. The frequency of alleles in a population is constant. Allele frequency is the frequency of an allele in a population.
- 4. The frequency of alleles in a population is constant. Allele frequency is the frequency of an allele in a population.
