Psychology and Mathematics Education Gila Hanna,Laura Macchi,Karin Binder,Laura Martignon,Katharina Loibl,2023-09-05 Modern Mathematics is constructed rigorously through proofs based on truths which are either axioms or previously proven theorems Thus it is par excellence a model of rational inquiry Links between Cognitive Psychology and Mathematics Education have been particularly strong during the last decades Indeed the Enlightenment view of the rational human mind that reasons makes decisions and solves problems based on logic and probabilities was shaken during the second half of the twentieth century Cognitive psychologists discovered that humans thoughts and actions often deviate from rules imposed by strict normative theories of inference Yet these deviations should not be called errors as Cognitive Psychologists have demonstrated these deviations may be either valid heuristics that succeed in the environments in which humans have evolved or biases that are caused by a lack of adaptation to abstract information formats Humans as the cognitive psychologist and economist Herbert Simon claimed do not usually optimize but rather satisfice even when solving problem This Research Topic aims at demonstrating that these insights have had a decisive impact on Mathematics Education We want to stress that we are concerned with the view of bounded rationality that is different from the one espoused by the heuristics and biases program In Simon s bounded rationality and its direct descendant ecological rationality rationality is understood in terms of cognitive success in the world correspondence rather than in terms of conformity to content free norms of coherence e g transitivity Debates in Geography Education Mark Jones,David Lambert,2017-09-07 Debates in Geography Education encourages early career teachers experienced teachers and teacher educators to engage with and reflect on key issues concepts and debates It aims to enable readers to reach their own informed judgements with deeper theoretical knowledge and understanding The second edition is fully updated in light of the latest research policy and practice in the field as well as key changes to the curriculum and examination specifications Expert contributors provide a range of perspectives on international historical and policy contexts in order to deepen our understanding of significant debates in geography education Key debates include geography s identity as an academic discipline what constitutes knowledge in geography places and regional geography what it means to think geographically constructing the curriculum how we link assessment to making progress in geography the contribution of fieldwork and outdoor experiences technology and the use of Geographical Information school geography and employability understanding the gap between school and university geography evidence based practice and research in geography education The comprehensive rigorous coverage of these key issues together with carefully annotated selected further reading will help support and shape further research and writing Debates in Geography Education is a key resource that is essential reading for all teachers and researches who wish to extend their grasp of the place of geography in education Mark Jones is Senior Lecturer in Education at the University of the West of England Bristol UK David Lambert is Professor of Geography Education at UCL Institute of Education London UK
