All over the world economic inclusion has risen to the top of the development discourse. A well performing education system is central to achieving inclusive development but the challenge of improving educational outcomes has proven to be unexpectedly difficult. Access to education has increased but quality remains low with weaknesses in governance comprising an important part of the explanation. The Politics and Governance of Basic Education explores the balance between hierarchical and horizontal institutional arrangements for the public provision of basic education. Using the vivid example of South Africa, a country that had ambitious goals at the outset of its transition from apartheid to democracy, it explores how the interaction of politics and institutions affects educational outcomes. By examining lessons learned from how South Africa failed to achieve many of its goals, it constructs an innovative alternative strategy for making progress combining practical steps to achieve incremental gains to re-orient the system towards learning.

G. Jones,R.W. Carlson,H.S. Grütter,2004-03-11 Given the established nature of geoscientific knowledge of the Kaapvaal craton compared to the Slave craton and given the exciting new interdisciplinary results coming from the Kaapvaal Project and from Slave craton studies scientists working on both cratons were brought together in a workshop to compare and contrast the nature of these two cratons Of the 54 papers presented at the workshop 24 are included in this volume There are clearly major similarities and differences between these two Archean cratons The crust of both was predominantly formed in the Mesoarchean Both contain crustal sections consisting of terranes of different ages welded together by Archean accretionary events Both crustal sections are underlain by lithospheric mantle sections consisting of peridotites that experienced extensive partial melt extraction between 2.9 Ga and 3.2 Ga but this is where the similarities between the cratons end One of the most striking differences between the Slave and Kaapvaal cratons is the apparent seismic homogeneity of the Kaapvaal craton's SCLM whereas the Slave craton is seismically layered The seismic layering in the centre of the craton correlates laterally and with depth with electrical layering and geochemical layering Taken together these differences suggest that SCLM formation was different for the two cratons implying that the search for a single causative formation process is bound to fail Reprinted from the journal Lithos Volume 71 numbers 2-4 Juta's Statutes of South Africa South Africa,2003 Precambrian of the Southern Hemisphere D.R. Goodwin,2016-02-06 The main goal of this book is to provide a modern comprehensive statement on the Earth's Precambrian crust It uses geographic and tectonic location lithostratigraphy geochronology and petrogenesis as a basis for considering Precambrian coastal evolution including the role of plate tectonics Detailed consideration is given to the endogenic and exogenic processes which formed the continental crust and also to its subsequent secular evolution across Precambrian time An essential reference volume for every Precambrian geologist Postcolonial Polysystems Haidee Kruger,2012-12-19 Postcolonial Polysystems The Production and Reception of Translated Children's Literature in South Africa is an original and provocative contribution to the field of children's literature research and translation studies It draws on a variety of methodologies to provide a perspective both product and process oriented on the ways in which translation contributes to the production of children s literature in South Africa with a special interest in language and power as well as post and neocolonial hybridity The book explores the forces that affect the use of translation in producing children s literature in various languages in South Africa and shows how some of these forces precipitate in the selection production and reception of translated children s books in Afrikaans and English It breaks new ground in its interrogation of aspects of translation theory within the multilingual and postcolonial context of South Africa as well as in its innovative experimental investigation of the reception of domesticating and foreignising strategies in translated picture books
