Making Hospitals Work:

Making Hospitals Work Marc Baker, Ian Taylor, Alan Mitchell, 2009 A Lean Action Workbook from the Lean Enterprise Academy a affiliate of the Lean Global Network and the Lean Enterprise Institute For the first time Making Hospitals Work provides a practical road map for healthcare leaders seeking to create truly lean hospitals It outlines a clear framework for focusing improvement activities on the most important challenges facing each hospital It uses the same evidence based scientific method as clinicians use to diagnose and treat medical problems to analyze and redesign the core emergency and elective patient journeys from arrival to discharge It opens everyone s eyes to the big win win win opportunities to eliminate unnecessary waiting time for patients to synchronize activities so clinical staff can spend more time caring for patients and to free up capacity by reducing length of stay and cut the overtime and agency budget It also introduces the key new role of the value stream manager in gaining agreement on what needs to be done by whom in every department across the hospital Every step described in Making Hospitals Work has been tried and tested in the three years action research that led to this workbook It is the critical breakthrough to take the next steps on the lean healthcare journey

Mapping Clinical Value Streams Thomas L. Jackson,2017-07-27 Tens of thousands of patients die unnecessarily every year as a result of errors and defects in our healthcare processes Those that survive often pay too much for the privilege The value stream mapping methods described in Mapping Clinical Value Streams will help you achieve more efficient health care processes and will pave the way to an improve Nursing before Nightingale, 1815-1899 Dr Judith Godden,Ms Carol

Helmstadter,2013-07-28 Nursing Before Nightingale is a study of the transformation of nursing in England from the beginning of the nineteenth century until the emergence of the Nightingale nurse as the standard model in the 1890s From the nineteenth century on historians have considered Florence Nightingale with her training school established at St Thomas s Hospital in 1860 the founder of modern nursing This book investigates two major earlier reforms in nursing a doctor driven reform which came to be called the ward system and the reforms of the Anglican Sisters known as the central system of nursing Rather than being the beginning of nursing reform Nightingale nursing was the culmination of these two earlier reforms Recent historians of nursing have ascribed the nineteenth century makeover of nursing to two causes medicalization by hospital doctors who found the old independent nurse practitioners a threat and the inculcation of middle class values by philanthropists By contrast this volume demonstrates that the real cause of nursing reform was the development of the new scientific medicine which emphasized supportive therapeutics and as a result became heavily dependent on skilled nursing for successful implementation of these treatments The pre industrial work ethic of the old hospital nurses could not meet the requirements of the new medicine Recruitment and retention of working class persons was also extremely difficult because nursing in the early nineteenth century formed the lowest rung of the occupation of domestic service and was a job of last resort It was still more difficult to recruit educated women or ladies There were intricate interactions between the requirements of clinical nursing under hospital medicine s new regime on the one hand and on the other the contemporary ideal of a lady class structure economic realities the reformation of manners and the detrimental impact of violent denominational controversies in a very religious society This book therefore will be of great value to those studying the history of medicine labour religion gender studies and the rise of a respectable society in the nineteenth century
