Johnson,2019-04-16 An acclaimed economist reveals that school integration efforts in the 1970s and 1980s were overwhelmingly successful and argues that we must renew our commitment to integration for the sake of all Americans We are frequently told that school integration was a social experiment doomed from the start But as Rucker C Johnson demonstrates in Children of the Dream it was in fact a spectacular achievement Drawing on longitudinal studies going back to the 1960s he shows that students who attended integrated and well funded schools were more successful in life than those who did not and this held true for children of all races Yet as a society we have given up on integration Since the high point of integration in 1988 we have regressed and segregation again prevails Contending that integrated well funded schools are the primary engine of social mobility Children of the Dream offers a radical new take on social policy It is essential reading in our divided times

Peace Arnim Langer, Graham K. Brown, 2016-06-16 Countries emerging from civil war or protracted violence often face the daunting challenge of rebuilding their economy while simultaneously creating the political and social conditions for a stable peace The implicit assumption in the international community that rapid political democratisation along with economic liberalisation holds the key to sustainable peace is belied by the experiences of countries such as Iraq and Afghanistan Often the challenges of post conflict reconstruction revolve around the timing and sequencing of different reform that may have contradictory implications Drawing on a range of thematic studies and empirical cases this book examines how post conflict reconstruction policies can be better sequenced in order to promote sustainable peace The book provides evidence that many reforms that are often thought to be imperative in post conflict societies may be better considered as long term objectives and that the immediate imperative for such societies should be people centred policies Official Gazette Philippines, 2004
