adjacent to characteristic constructions like the Bird's Nest National Stadium and the Water Cube National Aquatics Center. MICCAI is the foremost international scientific event in the field of medical image computing and computer-assisted interventions. The annual conference has a high scientific standard by virtue of the threshold for acceptance and accordingly MICCAI has built up a track record of attracting leading scientists, engineers, and clinicians from a wider range of technical and biomedical disciplines. This year we received 786 submissions well in line with the previous two conferences in New York and London. Three program chairs and a program committee of 31 scientists, all with a recognized standing in the field of the conference, were responsible for the selection of the papers. The review process was set up such that each paper was considered by the three program chairs, two program committee members, and a minimum of three external reviewers. The review process was double-blind so the reviewers did not know the identity of the authors of the submission. After a careful evaluation procedure in which all controversial and gray area papers were discussed individually, we arrived at a total of 251 accepted papers for MICCAI 2010, of which 45 were selected for podium presentation and 206 for poster presentation. The acceptance percentage, 32%, was in keeping with that of previous MICCAI conferences. All 251 papers are included in the three MICCAI 2010 LNCS volumes: Arterial Aging and Age-Associated Arterial Diseases. Mingyi Wang, Jiguang Wang, Gianfranco Pintus, Cuntai Zhang, 2019-01-24. The underlying mechanisms behind aging have long been a great scientific mystery that the biomedical research community has long studied. In developed nations, as the population grows older, increases in life expectancy are increasingly limited by our relatively poor control of chronic aging-associated diseases such as arterial aging. Among age-related conditions that negatively influence longevity, growing evidence demonstrates that arterial aging is fundamentally caused by a proinflammatory process that begins at birth and results in detrimental effects that affect every organ system. Vascular aging is the leading risk factor for quintessential cardiovascular diseases such as hypertension and atherosclerosis. With aging, vascular walls develop a proinflammatory and stressed microenvironment characterized by both an upregulation of proinflammatory chemokines and cytokines as well as a downregulation of anti-inflammatory counterparts. This chronic imbalance in inflammatory regulatory networks is the key driver of changes at the cellular and molecular level that result in hypertensive and atherosclerotic arteries. Thus, an intervention of proinflammation may be a viable therapeutic intervention to reduce morbidity and mortality from cardiovascular diseases. In this eBook, we aim to supply an updated overview of the physiological and biochemical mechanisms that affect inflammation and vascular aging. We believe that this eBook will contribute to the understanding of the pathogenesis of many chronic or age-related diseases as well as to their treatment with both current and new therapeutic approaches.
