Ethics and Justice. Éthique et justice Peter Kemp, Noriko Hashimoto, 2017 The main theme of volume 6 of Eco ethica is Ethics and Justice which focuses on the idea of justice in a metaphysical social and personal sense Justice is considered as a balance between opposite ambitions in interdependent persons and as equity in legislation but not as blind justice Today it is valuable not only on the national but also on the cosmopolitan level Before it became personal justice the idea of justice was considered metaphysical and social both in European and Chinese culture However in modern times it is often reduced to a moral duty without meta ethical responsibility The last section considers the importance of the philosophy of Paul Ricoeur 1913 2005 for clarifying the idea of justice Series Eco Ethica Vol 6 Subject Philosophy Ethics

The International Legal System in Quest of Equity and Universality Laurence Boisson de Chazournes, Vera Gowlland-Debbas, 2021-10-18 Georges Abi Saab began his writing and teaching at a time when the process of decolonization and thereafter the quest for emancipation began to make its far reaching impact on the international scene producing significant changes in the international environment both quantitatively in increasing the number of nation States and qualitatively in changing patterns of interests and claims This was bound to result in new pressures on the international legal system itself and in a questioning of the traditional Eurocentric content of international law In his work and teaching Professor Abi Saab viewed the dynamics of international law as a function of two driving forces the emergence of the third world and the sense of injustice In his view the first driving force the emergence of the third world raised the problem of exclusion exclusion from participation in the elaboration of international law and the decision making process and exclusion as beneficiaries of the resulting rules of international law At the same time this new force introduced diversity into the international scene reflecting the richness of the international community in its different facets This process remains relevant today reflecting the contemporary problem of exclusion of new actors as well as their quest for participation The second driving force the sense of injustice posed a teleological problem for him that of defining community values in order that they capture the different facets of justice whether formal or distributive So long as there is no effective organic structure international law in his view will continue to remain effectiveness oriented reflecting rather than impacting on the structures of power Nevertheless it is undeniable that there is an ongoing process of development of community values and interests as Georges Abi Saab wrote with reference to international crimes law like all social phenomena is a continuous unfolding a continuous process of elaboration He has also considered that the dynamics of the international legal process itself can be captured from the perspective of international organizations as vehicles for change in the international system From his early writings Georges Abi Saab approached the United Nations Charter as a blueprint both normative and institutional for a certain type of international society International institutions with all their imperfections continue for him to be the means of realization of the law of cooperation which lies at the heart of his concept of the international system The themes selected for this volume in honour of Professor Georges Abi Saab are intended to reflect his unique and pioneering contribution to the field of international law The contributors are drawn from what he has always considered to be his large family of former students in his forty years of teaching Georges Abi Saab has acted as mentor to generations of students from all over the world who have benefited from his vision insights originality and creative and stimulating use of language The contributors also include colleagues and friends who share a similar vision of the international legal system The Quest for Argumentative Equivalence Emanuele Brambilla, 2020-02-17 What are the implications of strategic manoeuvring for the activity of the simultaneous interpreter This is the main question addressed in The Quest for Argumentative Equivalence Based on the analysis of a multilingual comparable corpus named ARGO the book investigates political argumentation with an eye to its reformulation by interpreters After reporting and discussing a series of case studies illustrating interpreters problems in the political context the study reconstructs the prototypical argumentative patterns used by Obama Cameron Sarkozy and Hollande not only in a hermeneutical perspective but also considering interpreters need to reproduce them into a foreign language Situated at the intersection of Argumentation Theory and Interpreting Studies the book provides a contribution to the descriptive study of political argumentation highlighting the presence of interpreters as a key contextual variable in political communication and deepening the study of the interlinguistic and translational implications of the act of arguing Anthropologica, 2004 Fins de la littérature, esthétiques de la fin Dominique Viart, 2012-03-07 Les discours sur la fin de la littérature déplorent la perte de son aura sociale l'affaiblissement de son lectorat et jugent avec nostalgie les crivains d'aujourd'hui Ils voquent les menaces qui pèsent sur le livre ou s'inquiètent de l'incertitude de son avenir numérique Il est temps d'interroger ces discours d'en peser les arguments et les enjeux Dans cet ouvrage interdisciplinaire crivains penseurs philosophes sociologues historiens littéraires et critiques croisent leurs approches de la question Les défis de la globalisation Jacques Delcourt, 2001 Comme tout processus la globalisation a des conséquences heureuses et malheureuses Dans le débat sur la globalisation entamé par les scientifiques les experts et les citoyens il y a des regards positifs et négatifs Cet ouvrage se veut constructif Storia della storiografia, 2000 The World We Could Win G. Fraser-Moleketi, Geraldine Fraser-Moleketi, 2005-09-14 Global Governance represents a new way of thinking about the world we live in This new vision of Global Governance is the result of two converging forces One is historical the other conceptual One is the fact that the world is growing closer empirically linked by the thousands of wires and streams of information and satellites and phones and screens and jet planes that bind us now Conceptually the world needs to be able to step outside itself and see itself and then develop a language to capture that new vision We can view the globe as one unit with not necessarily a government but certainly a system of governance The fact that there is no world government does not mean that there is no system of global governance It is a place it is a polity it has a system by which authority is shared and spread and used and for that the new word governance that has emerged in the academic literature is the mot juste It has no implication of entitlement to decide it is simply a word to describe a process The first part of this book with six essays looks thematically at different elements or facets of Global Governance and the issues that arise The second half of this volume deals with some regional perspectives on Global Governance Our aim in this book is to raise our eyes beyond the currently known world in public administration and look at the new unit of analysis clearly It is the world we could win challenges the often convenient rationalisations of regime theory the governance approach and post national or cosmopolitan democracy in order to explore the practical theoretical and ethical implications of the new world of global norms
