British and Irish Paintings in Public Collections Christopher Wright, Catherine May Gordon, 2006-01-01 This book sets a new standard as a work of reference. It covers British and Irish art in public collections from the beginning of the sixteenth century to the end of the nineteenth and it encompasses nearly 9 000 painters and 90 000 paintings in more than 1 700 separate collections. The book includes as well pictures that are now lost some as a consequence of the Second World War and others because of deaccessioning mostly from 1950 to about 1975 when Victorian art was out of fashion. By listing many tens of thousands of previously unpublished works including around 13 000 which do not yet have any form of attribution this book becomes a unique and indispensable work of reference one that will transform the study of British and Irish painting

Napa Wine Charles L. Sullivan, 2008-10-01 Charles Sullivan's Napa Wine: A History is the engaging story of the rise to prominence of what many believe to be the greatest winegrowing area in the Western hemisphere. This new edition completes that picture bringing to light more than a decade of dramatic changes and shifted norms visited upon the valley from phylloxera-wasted vineyards to High Court officiated territorial battles told in a rousing transportive narrative. Beginning in 1817 with the movement of Spanish missions into the San Francisco Bay area Sullivan winds his way through the great wine boom of the late 19th century, the crippling effect of Prohibition and Napa's rise out of its havoc to its eventual rivaling of Bordeaux in the judgments of 1976 and 2006. Published in cooperation with the Napa Valley Wine Library the book includes historic maps, charts of vineyard ownership and vintages from the 1880s to present

The Making of Christian Myths in the Periphery of Latin Christendom (c. 1000-1300) Lars Boje Mortensen, 2006 Mythology is usually reserved for non-Christian religions. However, the adoption of Christianity in Northern and East Central Europe between c. 1000 and 1300 can be adequately described as a myth-making process: local saints were added to the Christian pantheon in all regions entering Latin Europe. The present collection explores the links between local sanctity and the making of national myths in medieval historical writing. By bringing together specialists in history and literature of the European periphery in question, the case is made that the writing of history and saints' lives from this pioneering period should be analysed together as mainly successful attempts at creating cultural foundation myths

Dickinson's Nerves, Frost's Woods William Logan, 2018-06-05 In Dickinson's Nerves, Frost's Woods William Logan, the noted and often controversial critic of contemporary poetry, returns to some of the greatest poems in English literature. He reveals what we may not have seen before and what his critical eye can do with what he loves. In essays that pair different poems: Ozymandias, On First Looking Into Chapman's Homer, In a Station of the Metro, The Red Wheelbarrow, After Great Pain a Formal Feeling Comes, and Stopping by Woods on a Snowy Evening among others, Logan reconciles history and poetry to provide new ways of reading poets ranging from Shakespeare and Shelley to Lowell and Heaney In these striking essays Logan presents the poetry of the past through the lens of the past attempting to bring poems back to the world in which they were made Logan s criticism is informed by the material culture of that world whether postal deliveries in Regency London the Metro lighting in 1911 Paris or the wheelbarrows used in 1923 Deeper knowledge of the poet s daily existence lets us read old poems afresh providing a new way of understanding poems now encrusted with commentary Logan shows that criticism cannot just root blindly among the words of the poem but must live partly in a lost world in the shadow of the poet s life and the shadow of the age and Shippers Guide for the United States and Canada and Newfoundland ,1918 US Counter-terrorism Strategy and Al-Qaeda Joshua A. Geltzer, 2009-09-10 This book examines the communicative aspects and implications of US counter terrorist policies towards al Qaeda Recent US counter terrorist strategy has been largely based upon projecting certain perceptions of America as an actor to those drawn to al Qaeda and this book investigates in what ways and to what extent US officials believed that the signals sent by what America did and said could influence the behaviour of the terrorist and would be terrorist The study then draws on a growing understanding of that audience to analyse how those drawn to al Qaeda were and indeed still are likely to be influenced by the perceptions of America that Washington s policies generated The study s central argument is that given al Qaeda s unconventional strategy and the particularities of the world view characterising those drawn to the group America s counter terrorist signalling proved largely counter productive to America s objective of undermining al Qaeda s strategic narrative instead serving in many ways to validate it Firstly this book seeks to reveal the significant and largely unexplored role that signalling has played in US counter terrorist policy towards al Qaeda Second it tries to capture the objectives strategy tactics ideology and other defining features of the world view characterising those drawn to al Qaeda Third it strives to combine those two lines of inquiry by applying the al Qaeda world view to a critical analysis of the signals sent by US policies Finally the book aims to offer broad policy implications that demonstrate how an informed understanding of the world view of those drawn to al Qaeda can be employed to revise and refine American counter terrorist signalling This book will be of much interest to students of US foreign policy and public diplomacy counter terrorism strategy and international security Joshua Alexander Geltzer has a PhD in War Studies from Kings College London and is currently a juris doctoral student at Yale Law School
