

Instructions for Middle School Research Paper Unit

Note: these procedures can be modified or adjusted in any way to meet your needs*

1. Distribute (or display) the list of research topic choices. Briefly discuss each one, and have students choose the one they want to research. This list can be shortened, lengthened, or replaced entirely as you see fit. With some classes I feel I need to further narrow their choices, and with some gifted or advanced classes, I let the students choose any topic they want. It's entirely up to you.

2. Once each student has a topic, distribute the "K-W-L" sheet. Have the students write their topics exactly as they are written on the page of choices, or attached to page one if -- but they should include in the form of a question. Have them write as much as they can on the known box -- they may say, "But I don't know anything about how to research them." Ask them, "Do you know that they learn from clouds? Yes? Then tell me what you know about it." Have the most basic facts are okay. In the next box, they will write at least two questions they WANT to know about the topic. These will be the driving big questions that will form the basis of their body paragraphs. They will leave the third box blank for now.

3. At this point, my head of the computer lab will be giving research. I explain to them that when they are Googleing their topics, they should find the sources that are reliable and authoritative -- academic journals online and news sites. They should not use websites that anyone can edit, such as Wikipedia. Ask them, "About how do you use it?" I explain that Wikipedia can be a good starting point for finding information about things, but in the process the sources cited at the bottom of the entry, they can identify good news sites, usually around references that they can check out and possibly use. <http://www.copyright.com/copyright/copying-guidelines-essays-for-finding-sources.html> provided a nice list of recommended websites for finding sources.

4. This is where you have a choice. I use the Google Drive, but you could also print and hand out a hard copy of the most important if you don't have access to Google Drive. Similarly, you could do it digitally, but use Word if you have word processing programs -- it's just much easier to share documents through Google Drive. I create a folder called "Research Paper Documents." I then share it with all students, but I make sure it's in READ-ONLY mode so that they can't edit the master copies of any of the documents. Within that folder, I upload the page called Source Documents, the page called Rough Draft, the page called Sample Works Cited Page, and the page called Research Paper Rubric. Once they're uploaded, I right click each one and go to "Open with Google Drive." Once they are converted to Google documents, you can delete the Word versions that you opened. You can do these all at once, or can do them separately so the students only get the document they need at that particular time.
