pH and litmus paper:

Many common substances are either acids or bases. Some acids, like stomach acid are necessary for our health, while others, like sulfuric acid are dangerous and can cause burns and other injuries. Baking soda is a common, weak base used in our homes, while sodium hydroxide, a strong base, is hazardous to skin and eyes.

The easiest way to determine if a substance is acidic or basic is to use an indicator. Indicators are organic molecules that change color in an acid or a base. When an indicator is placed on paper, it provides a fast way to determine if a substance has acidic or basic properties. The most common acid/base indicator paper is called litmus paper, so a litmus test is the first test used to determine acidic or basic properties. If the litmus paper turns red/pink, the substance is acidic. If it turns orange or red, the substance is an acid. If it turns green or blue, then it is a base.

Biuret test:

A biuret test is used to detect the presence of proteins. A violet color indicates the presence of proteins. Proteins give a strong biuret reaction because they contain a large number of peptide bonds. It is possible to use the biuret reaction to determine the concentration of proteins because (for most proteins) peptide bonds occur with approximately the same frequency per gram of material. The biuret test works by the peptides forming a grouping around a Cu molecule. This grouping has a pink to violet color depending on the amount of protein.
