Rethinking Homework Cathy Vatterott, 2009 Is homework an essential component of rigorous schooling or a harmful practice that alienates and discourages a significant number of students The debate over homework has gone on for decades but schools and families have changed in many ways and as author Cathy Vatterott notes There's a growing suspicion that something is wrong with homework Rethinking Homework Best Practices That Support Diverse Needs examines the role homework has played in the culture of schooling over the years how such factors as family life the media and the balance movement have affected the homework controversy and what research and educators common sense tells us about the effects of homework on student learning The best way to address the pro and anti homework controversy is not to eliminate homework Instead the author urges educators to replace the old paradigm characterized by longstanding cultural beliefs moralistic views the puritan work ethic and behaviorist philosophy with a new paradigm based on the following elements Designing quality homework tasks Differentiating homework tasks Deemphasizing grading of homework Improving homework completion and Implementing homework strategies and support programs Numerous examples from teachers and schools that have revised their practices and policies for homework illustrate the new paradigm in action The end product is homework that works for all students at all levels

EdPsych Modules Cheryl Cisero Durwin, Marla Reese-Weber, 2019-12-04 EdPsych Modules uses an innovative modular approach and case studies based on real life classroom situations to address the challenge of effectively connecting theory and research to practice Succinct stand alone modules are organized into themed units and offer instructors the flexibility to tailor the book's contents to the needs of their course. The units begin with a set of case studies written for early childhood, elementary, middle, and secondary classrooms, providing students with direct insight into the dynamics influencing the future students they plan to teach. All 25 modules highlight diversity, emphasizing how psychological factors adapt and change based on external influences such as sex, gender, race, language, disability, status, and socioeconomic background. The Fourth Edition includes over three hundred new references across all 25 modules and expanded coverage of diversity in new diversity-related research. This title is accompanied by a complete teaching and learning package.
