9/11 Final Report of the National Commission on Terrorist Attacks Upon the United States is the official report of the events leading up to the September 11 2001 terrorist attacks. It was prepared by the National Commission on Terrorist Attacks Upon the United States. The commission interviewed over 1 200 people in 10 countries and reviewed over two and a half million pages of documents including some closely guarded classified national security documents. Before it was released by the commission, the final public report was screened for any potentially classified information and edited as necessary.

It is perhaps obvious to state that terrorists cannot plan and carry out attacks in the United States if they are unable to enter the country. Yet prior to September 11 while there were efforts to enhance border security, no agency of the U.S. government thought of border security as a tool in the counterterrorism arsenal. Indeed, even after 19 hijackers demonstrated the relative ease of obtaining a U.S. visa and gaining admission into the United States, border security still is not considered a cornerstone of national security policy. We believe for reasons we discuss in the following pages that it must be made one.
