Flying Magazine, 1974-11 The Madness of Fear Edward Shorter, Max Fink, 2018-06-27 What are the real disease entities in psychiatry This is a question that has bedeviled the study of the mind for more than a century yet it is low on the research agenda of psychiatry Basic science issues such as neuroimaging neurochemistry and genetics carry the day instead There is nothing wrong with basic science research but before studying the role of brain circuits or cerebral chemistry shouldn't we be able to specify how the various diseases present clinically Catatonia is a human behavioral syndrome that for almost a century was buried in the poorly designated psychiatric concept of schizophrenia Its symptoms are well known and some of them are serious Catatonic patients may die as their temperatures accelerate they become dehydrated because they refuse to drink they risk inanition because they refuse to eat or move Autistic children with catatonia may hit themselves repeatedly in the head We don't really know what catatonia is in the sense that we know what pneumonia is But we can identify it and it is eminently treatable Clinicians can make these patients better on a reliable basis There are few other disease entities in psychiatry of which this is true So why has there been so little psychiatric interest in catatonia Why is it simply not on the radar of most clinicians Catatonia actually occurs in a number of other medical illnesses as well but it is certainly not on the radar of most internists or emergency physicians In The Madness of Fear Drs Shorter and Fink seek to understand why this vast field of ignorance exists In the history of catatonia they see a remarkable story about how medicine

flounders and then seems to find its way And it may help doctors and the public to recognize catatonia as one of the core illnesses in psychiatry Annual Report on the Police Administration of the Town of Calcutta and Its Suburbs Calcutta.
