Advances in Communication Research to Reduce Childhood Obesity Jerome D. Williams,Keryn E Pasch,Chiquita A. Collins,2013-02-12 Rates of childhood obesity are alarmingly high and increasing each year Studies have shown that obese children are more likely to become obese adults and are likely to suffer with numerous health consequences like coronary heart disease high blood pressure and Type II diabetes among others Studies also indicate that television viewing and exposure to advertising for food products influences children s attitudes toward food preferences and food purchase requests for foods with low nutritional value It is important to better understand the role of media in childhood obesity and to learn how media may be used to address this issue in a positive way This book focuses on communication and media research that can have an impact on reducing childhood obesity Emphasis is placed on topics related to how the media communicate health related messages about food nutrition and diet that influence childhood obesity Particular emphasis is on the new media given the fact that media now have more central roles in socializing today s children and youth than ever before Advertising and marketing messages reach young consumers through a variety of vehicles broadcast and cable television radio magazines computers through the Internet music cell phones and in many different venues homes schools child care settings grocery stores shopping malls theaters sporting events and even airports In addition given the disparity in obesity rates between children of color and the general population special attention is given to research on media targeting these populations

Marketing Communications Lynne Eagle,Barbara Czarnecka,Stephan Dahl,Jenny Lloyd,2014-08-27 With the proliferation of digital and social media there has never been a more dynamic time to engage with marketing communications and never has the integration of marketing communications marcoms principles into a strategic marketing plan been more challenging Even the best product in the world won t sell without the right reach to your potential customers and the right message to engage them This textbook applies a uniquely practical approach to the topic so that whilst a structured overview of planning development implementation and evaluation of marketing communications is in place the detailed cases made available by the Institute for Practitioners in Advertising IPA show how actual challenges faced by professionals in the field were addressed This book will help you to develop the skills you need to turn theory into the right integrated communication plan in order to succeed in an increasingly competitive environment Aided by a veritable wealth of pedagogical features Marketing Communications will be essential reading for both students and professionals in marketing communications and public relations This textbook also benefits from a companion website which includes a comprehensive instructor s guide with PowerPoint slides testbank questions and answer checklists

Understanding Children as Consumers David Marshall, 2010-04-30 Looking at consumption from the child's perspective this book differs from the competition by uncovering what being a consumer means to the children themselves from their perspective giving them a voice in the debate Kids and branding in a digital world Barry Gunter, 2015-11-01 As consumer markets have developed and become more crowded and competitive so brands have become more important in enabling consumers to make informed choices This book shows how children become engaged with brands and understand what they mean and how their relationship with brands changes over time as they mature as consumers It sets this development against the changes that have occurred in styles of brand promotion in the digital world where more subtle ways of reaching consumers have been developed by brand marketers Children become aware of brands from an early age Even before they start school they can recognise brand names and ask for brands by name The meaning of brands to children can vary dramatically with age As with other aspects of consumer socialisation children's initial orientation towards brands occurs at a superficial level because their level of cognitive development does not allow them to understand deeper seated symbolic meanings of brands Children's understanding of brands and the relationships they have with them may also be influenced by the new promotional techniques developed by marketers Children's recognition of advertisements depends upon being able to identify specific features which signal a persuasive message In the online world of social media and computer games the presence of brands may not be recognized as advertising and so the usual learned defenses against persuasion are not triggered This could place young consumers at a disadvantage This phenomenon has raised important questions for parents educators and marketing regulators and these are addressed in this book through reference to the latest research and writings from around the world

Responsible Marketing for Well-being and Society Michael Saren, Louise M. Hassan, Miriam McGowan, N. Craig Smith, Emma Surman, Rohit Varman, 2024-04-09 This book provides an overview of recent and current research which defines and scopes the field of responsible marketing in one single edited book It brings together diverse perspectives from contributors at Birmingham University leading the academic development of knowledge of the subject to contribute to the learning curriculum and reach out to those interested in improving marketing practices and standards Responsible Marketing for Well being and Society draws together a rich and diverse body of scholarly research from a variety of perspectives from individual to global macro and micro producer and consumer environmental stakeholder supply chain and other intermediary viewpoints The embryonic research in this field involves different philosophical and methodological positions theoretical approaches and research communities including aspects of corporate social responsibility marketing ethics critical marketing consumer culture theory and macromarketing The book takes a predominantly organisational or enterprise level perspective in order to understand and explain how individuals and organisations can manage their marketing activities and relationships responsibly The actions of other stakeholders are also a crucial component in achieving responsible outcomes therefore a broader perspective on the impacts of marketing decisions and actions on other stakeholders such as consumers employees the environment and society is also taken as a basis for analysis and discussion The book provides an authoritative overview for the academic market including university libraries research teams PhD students and independent researchers The topics and contents of responsible marketing are relevant to several disciplinary fields of study including marketing advertising retailing and other business subjects consumer studies sustainability ethics public policy media studies psychology economics and other social sciences
