

Chapter 2

Financial Markets and Institutions

Answers to End-of-Chapter Questions

- 2-1 When the transfer is made through investment banks, the banks underwrite the issue. The banks bear the risk that they may not be able to resell the securities to savers for as much as they paid. When the transfer is through a financial intermediary, the intermediary obtains funds from savers in exchange for its securities. The intermediary uses this money to buy and hold businesses' securities. The intermediary therefore creates new forms of capital.
- 2-2 Normally, underwriters are investment banks. The company sells its stocks or bonds to the investment bank, which then sells these same securities to savers. The businesses' securities and the savers' money merely pass through the investment bank. This is the role of underwriters.
- 2-3 Financial intermediaries are banks, insurance companies or mutual funds. The financial intermediary obtains funds from savers in exchange for their securities, such as certificates of deposits. The intermediary uses the money to buy and hold businesses' securities and the savers hold the intermediary's securities.
- 2-4 A money market transaction occurs in the financial market in which funds are borrowed or loaned for short periods (less than one year). A capital market transaction occurs in the financial market in which stocks and intermediate—or long-term debt (one year or longer)—are issued.
- a. A U.S. Treasury bill is an example of a money market security.
  - b. U.S. Treasury notes are examples of capital market securities.
  - c. Negotiable certificates of deposit are examples of money market securities.
  - d. Credit card debt is an example of a money market security.
  - e. State government bonds are examples of capital market securities.
- 2-5 If people lost faith in the safety of financial institutions, it would be difficult for firms to raise capital. Thus, capital investment would slow down, unemployment would rise, the output of goods and services would fall, and, in general, our standard of living would decline.
- 2-6 Financial markets have experienced many changes during the last two decades. Technological advances in computers and telecommunications, along with the globalization of banking and commerce, have led to deregulation, which has increased competition throughout the world. As a result, there are more efficient, internationally linked markets, which are far more complex than what existed a few years ago. While these developments have been largely positive, they have also created problems for policy makers. With these concerns in mind, Congress and regulators have moved to reregulate parts of the financial sector following the recent financial crisis.
- Globalization has exposed the need for greater cooperation among regulators at the international level. Factors that complicate coordination include (1) the different structures in nations' banking and securities industries; (2) the trend toward financial services conglomerates,
