Life Science Memo Paper 2013 September:

Finding Reliable Information Online Leslie F. Stebbins, 2015-09-16 We live in an information saturated environment and spend far too much time searching surfing skimming contributing and organizing the information in our lives We spend too little time immersing ourselves in reliable high quality information We are often so buried in information and strapped for time that we grab information like it was fast food without bothering to evaluate its quality Finding Reliable Information Online Adventures of an Information Sleuth uses stories or information adventures to illustrate the best approaches to searching for information and to help us develop our aptitude for locating high quality resources in a rapidly changing digital environment that is becoming proficient at monopolizing our attention with useless or unreliable information This book is about taking charge of the search process and not handing over the reins to search engines like Google Bing or Yahoo to dictate what information we consume Each chapter focuses on a quest for different types of information while digging deeper into the complexities of finding credible places to look for information and ways to think about evaluating it As the Internet evolves and becomes more sophisticated our strategies for finding and evaluating information need to evolve as well The stories in this book range from investigating challenging research questions to exploring health issues and everyday life questions like finding a reliable restaurant or product review These chapters go beyond the simple and more mechanical checklist approach to evaluating information though these factors are also discussed Medical and Scientific

HC 254 Great Britain. Parliament. House of Commons. Select Committee on Science and Technology, Great Britain: Parliament: House of Commons: Science and Technology Committee, Andrew Miller, 2014-04-02 The Government is failing to clearly and effectively communicate climate science to the public There is little evidence of co ordination amongst Government government agencies and public bodies on communicating climate science despite various policies at national and regional level to mitigate and adapt to climate change The mandate to act on climate can only be maintained if the electorate are convinced that the Government is acting on the basis of strong scientific evidence Ministers therefore need to do more to demonstrate that is the case and consistently reflect the Government approach in all their communications especially with the media The report also criticises the BBC for its reporting on the issue It points out that BBC News teams continue to make mistakes in their coverage of climate science by giving opinions and scientific fact the same weight The BBC is called to develop clear editorial guidelines for all commentators and presenters on the facts of climate that should be used to challenge statements from either side of the climate policy debate that stray too far from the scientific facts It is important that climate science is presented separately from any subsequent policy response Government should work with the learned societies and national academies to develop a source of information on climate science that is discrete from policy delivery comprehensible to the general public and responsive to both current developments and uncertainties in the science

What Is the Truth About the Great Recession and Increasing Inequality? Mario Morroni, 2018-09-15

Have you ever puzzled over the causes of the 2007-8 financial crisis and wondered how it will affect all our futures? If so, this book is for you. Using imagined dialogue between three economists with contrasting theoretical perspectives and a student who knows little about economics, different interpretations are compared in straightforward, jargon-free language. The book explores both the consequences of neoliberal economic policies based on the belief in efficient self-regulating markets and the implications of alternative economic visions formulated in response to the Great Recession. In all nine dialogues are presented each of which focuses on a key theme: increasing inequality, the failure of economists to predict the crash, the reasons for fiscal austerity, the rolling back of the welfare state, the roles of the state and the market, the repercussions of the German trade surplus and the Eurozone crisis, policies to confront the crisis, environmental degradation and the need for an industrial policy appropriate to the present day. The book will be ideal for both general readers and those embarking on the study of economics.

Confronting Land and Property Problems for Peace Shinichi Takeuchi, 2014-06-05 This collection clarifies the background of land and property problems in conflict-affected settings and explores appropriate policy measures for peace building. While land and property problems exist in any society, they can be particularly exacerbated in conflict-affected settings characterized by unstable security, weak governance, loss of proper documentation as well as the return of refugees.

and Internally Displaced Persons Unless these problems are properly addressed they can destabilize fragile political order and hinder economic recovery Although tackling land and property problems is an important challenge for peace building it has been relatively neglected in recent debates about liberal peace building as a result of the strong focus on state level institution building such as security sector reforms and transitional justice Using rich original data from eight conflict affected countries this book examines the topic from the viewpoint of State society relationship In contrast to previous literature this volume analyses land and property problems in conflict afflicted areas from a long term perspective of state building and economic development rather than concentrating only on the immediate aftermath of the conflict The long term perspective enables not only an understanding of the root causes of the property problems in conflict affected countries but also elaboration of effective policy measures for peace Contributors are area specialists and the eight case study countries have been carefully selected for comparative study The collection applies a common framework to a diverse group of countries South Sudan Uganda Rwanda Burundi Cambodia Timor Leste Colombia and Bosnia Herzegovina

At War with Women Jennifer Greenburg, 2023-02-15 At War with Women reveals how post 9/11 politics of gender and development have transformed US military power. In the mid 2000s, the US military used development as a weapon as it revived counterinsurgency in Iraq and Afghanistan. The military assembled all female teams to reach households and wage war through development projects in the battle for hearts and minds. Despite women technically being banned from ground combat units, the all female teams were drawn into combat nonetheless. Based on ethnographic fieldwork observing military trainings, this book challenges liberal feminist narratives that justified the Afghanistan War in the name of women's rights and celebrated women's integration into combat as a victory for gender equality. Jennifer Greenburg critically interrogates a new imperial feminism and its central role in securing US hegemony. Women's incorporation into combat through emotional labor has reinforced gender stereotypes with counterinsurgency framing female soldiers as global ambassadors for women's rights. This book provides an analysis of US imperialism that keeps the present in tension with the past, clarifying where colonial ideologies of race, gender, and sexuality have resurfaced and how they are changing today.

Poison Powder Gregory S. Wilson, 2023-04-01 In 1975, workers at Life Science Products, a small makeshift pesticide factory in Hopewell, Virginia, became ill after exposure to Kepone, the brand name for the pesticide chlordane. They made the poison under contract for a much larger Hopewell company, Allied Chemical. Life Science workers had been breathing in the dust for more than a year. Ingestion of the chemical made their bodies seize and shake. News of ill workers eventually led to the discovery of widespread environmental contamination of the nearby James River and the landscape of the small working class city. Not only had Life Science dumped the chemical, but so had Allied when the company manufactured it in the 1960s and early 1970s. The resulting toxic impact was not only on the city of Hopewell but also on the faraway fields where Kepone was used as an insecticide. Aspects of this environmental tragedy are all too common: corporate avarice, ignorance, and regulatory failure combined with race and geography to determine toxicity and shape the response. But the Kepone story also contains some surprising medical, legal, and political moments amid the disaster. With Poison Powder, Gregory S. Wilson explores the conditions that put the Kepone factory and the workers there in the first place and the effects of the poison on the people and natural world long after 1975. Although the manufacture and use of Kepone is now banned by the Environmental Protection Agency, organochlorines have long half-lives, and these toxic compounds and their residues still remain in the environment.
