The Project Oversight Guide Herbert Marshall Jr., 2022-01-15 Whether you are a project manager tasked with overseeing an outsourced capital project or an owner investing in a major project critical to the future of your business you are most likely starting at a disadvantage A savvy contractor's project team is likely to be populated with project management professionals who have read an abundance of literature on how to maximize project value for themselves Unfortunately as any book search will show you there is virtually no guidance out there for how to successfully oversee a capital project from an owner's perspective In project management terms the client or owner is just a managed external stakeholder The book is intended to bridge the gap between knowing how to run a project and knowing how to oversee one

Readers of the POG will find out that project oversight and project management are uniquely different disciplines. Bad project oversight can make an otherwise good project fail, whereas good oversight can lead a substandard project team or contractor to succeed in delivering the expected return on investment. Did you know that when done right, project oversight more than pays for itself? By reading the POG, students of project management, project management professionals, and owners will gain insight into all facets of the oversight of capital projects, including tools and techniques, organizational design, best practices, behaviors, and processes. The POG packages this information in an examples-based look-see at real situations and lessons learned from the field.

WORDS OF PRAISE and REVIEWS

The Project Oversight Guide is a much needed and significant addition to project management literature. Well done. Robert Brese, Former CIO, Department of Energy. If you read this book, it will surely improve the prospects for your capital projects, ending in a more predictable and successful outcome. Cliff Eubanks, 36-year Oversight Senior Executive.

A Holistic Home-School-Community Model for Learning Chinese Language Tse Shek Kam, Laing Victor, 2021-09-28. This book contains the compilation of studies from a 5-year project aimed at improving the Chinese teaching and learning as a second language for non-Chinese speaking preschoolers in Hong Kong. In this project, a home school community model was used in an attempt to address the teaching and learning of Chinese for non-Chinese speaking preschoolers moving from a traditional school-centred teaching approach to a holistic approach. This allows them to learn in the same space and environment on the same topics, creating an inclusive classroom that does not compromise the teaching and learning of Chinese for both local and non-Chinese speaking preschoolers. Issues such as medium of instruction, language progression, silent period, multicultural teaching assistants, multilingual learning facilitators, parent changes, and effective teaching are studied and discussed.

Equality: A New Framework Bob Hepple, Mary Coussey, Tufyal Choudhury, 2000-07-24. The need for a legislative framework for ensuring equality of opportunity is not seriously questioned in the UK However despite the presence on the Statute book of various significant pieces legislation dating back to the mid 1970s there remain deep seated structural disadvantages which blight the lives of many women Black and Asian people and disabled persons The Stephen Lawrence inquiry report highlighted the presence of institutionalised racism in the police Similar barriers can also be found in other public services and in private sector organisations There are also insistent demands for the extension of legislation to cover discrimination on other grounds such as religion age and sexual orientation Discriminatory behaviour cannot be remedied by legislation alone or simply by the actions of government courts and tribunals and Commissions Political and social leadership customer and peer pressure the development of good practices and campaigning all have a crucial part to play Employers trade unions social organisations and clubs service providers and individuals all have to take voluntary action to achieve the goals of the legislation One thing that is clear is that the present legislation is badly in need of modernisation The present acts are outdated piecemeal and inconsistent They fall short of the standards set by EU law international human rights law and the Human Rights Act In writing this report the authors set out to develop an accessible and cost effective legislative framework for ensuring equality of opportunity and to propose other measures which will promote equal opportunity policies and spur compliance with those policies In the course of preparing the report they have considered experience in other countries They have heard from many individuals and organisations who have either experienced the effects of discrimination or attempted to counter it They conducted a survey of employers in Britain Northern Ireland and the USA which shows that human resource managers are looking for a new more inclusive approach not only to prevent discrimination but also to provide positively for the fair participation of all groups These views together with those of an advisory group drawn from government the Commissions and tribunals as well as a panel of academic and practising lawyers form the backdrop to the recommendations contained in this report Coming at a time when the Government is committed to introducing new equality legislation the report is bound to be highly influential It will be essential reading for all those interested in human rights discrimination and employment law and human resources management
