straddling World War I Working Girls bridges cultural histories of the Parisian imaginary and histories of French labour and puts them in raucous dialogue with one another a letter by a nineteen year old seamstress a speech by a government minister a frothy Parisian guide by a bon vivant the minutes of a union meeting a bawdy caf concert song a policy brief on garment working conditions The Booklist, 1921 The Living Age, 1920 Among Our Books Carnegie Library of Pittsburgh, 1922 Le Livre Contemporain, 1918 The Feminist Encyclopedia of French Literature Eva M. Sartori, 1999-07-30 The earliest known literary productions by women living in Europe were probably written by French writers As early as the 12th century women troubadours in the south of France were writing poems French women continued writing through the ages their number increasing as education became more available to women of all classes And yet of the great number of works by women writers who preceded the current feminist movement very few have survived A few writers such as Marie de France George Sand and Simone de Beauvoir became part of the canon But critics mostly male had judged the works of only a few women writers worthy of recognition As part of the feminist move to reclaim women writers and to rethink literary history scholars in French literature began to take a new look at women writers who had been popular during their lifetimes but who had not been admitted into the canon This reference book provides extensive information about French women writers and the world in which they lived Included are several hundred alphabetically arranged entries for authors literary genres such as the novel poetry and the short story literary movements such as classicism realism and surrealism life cycle events particular to women such as menstruation and menopause events and institutions which affected women differently than men such as revolutions wars and laws on marriage divorce and education The volume spans French literature from the Middle Ages to the present and covers those writers who lived and worked mainly in France The entries are written by expert contributors and each includes bibliographical information The entries focus on each writer s awareness of how her gender shaped her outlook and opportunities on how categorizations structures and terms used to describe literary works have been defined for women and the ways in which women writers have responded to these definitions The volume begins with a feminist history of French literature and concludes with a selected general bibliography and a chronology of women writers Library Journal Melvil Dewey, Richard Rogers Bowker, L. images that elite designers promoted to create a hybrid form of modern that both emancipated women and celebrated their femininity She delves into the intricacies of marketing the new clothes and the new image to middle class women and examines the nuts and bolts of a changing industry including textile production relationships between suppliers and department stores and privacy and intellectual property issues surrounding ready to wear couture designs Dressing Modern Frenchwomen draws from thousands of magazine covers advertisements fashion columns and features to uncover and untangle the fascinating relationships among the fashion industry the development of modern marketing techniques and the evolution of the modern woman as active mobile and liberated
