Congress. House. Committee on Appropriations. Subcommittee on Homeland Security,2016 Solidarity and Rule of Law Teresa Russo,Anna Oriolo,Gaspere Dalia,2023-07-12 This book offers an authentic and original perspective on the principles of solidarity and rule of law that are variously interconnected and increasingly invoked in international relations and affairs especially in the context of the European Union where they are among the founding values common to all Member States The innovative approach the authors adopt consists in the joint reading of these two principles within the broader framework of EU security thus offering a new interpretation and fertile ground for further research Divided into four parts the authors

consider EU security to be linked to the implementation of both these principles particularly with regard to EU stabilization and enlargement to the Western Balkans cross border security migration and asylum management criminal justice and human rights and police and judicial cooperation The contributions of eminent scholars international experts and practitioners are the book s greatest strength In addition it offers a valuable new perspective on the study of contemporary issues affecting the Western Balkans but also all Member States and the Union itself Therefore the book is an essential resource for students and scholars of EU law but also for lawyers and professionals involved in criminal proceedings or working in the field of human rights

Comparative Climate Change Litigation: Beyond the Usual Suspects Francesco Sindico, Makane Moïse Mbengue, 2021-01-21 This book is based on the acknowledgment that climate change is a multifaceted challenge that requires action on the part of all stakeholders including civil society and the notion that climate change is at a tipping point with urgent measures needed in the next decade Against this background civil society is turning its attention to the courts as a means to directly influence climate action partly because of the global scepticism towards the progress of global climate action despite the ongoing implementation of the Paris Agreement Focusing on the individual broadly representing civil society the book offers fresh perspectives on climate change litigation While most of the literature on climate change litigation examines the same specific jurisdictions mostly common law countries US and Australia in particular this book also considers specific countries in Asia Africa and Latin America with little or no climate change litigation It explores the reasons for the lack of litigation and discusses what measures should or could be taken to change this situation and push forward climate action Unlike other literature on the subject this book analyses climate change litigation using a scenario based methodology Combining rigorous academic analysis with a practical policy oriented focus the book provides valuable insights for a wide range of stakeholders interested in climate change litigation It appeals to civil society organisations around the world international organisations and law firms interested in climate change litigation

Fitness to Plead Ronnie Mackay, Warren Brookbanks, 2018-06-14 The law relating to fitness to plead is an increasingly important area of the criminal law While criminalization may be justified whenever an offender commits a sufficiently serious moral wrong requiring that he or she be called to account the doctrine of fitness to plead calls this principle into question in the case of a person who lacks the capacity or ability to participate meaningfully in a criminal trial In light of the emerging focus on capacity based approaches to decision making and the international human rights requirement that the law should treat defendants fairly this volume offers a benchmark for the theory and practice of fitness to plead providing readers with a unique opportunity to consider differing perspectives and debate on the future development and direction of a doctrine which has up till now been under discussed and under researched The fitness to plead rules stand as an exception to notions of public accountability for criminal wrongdoing yet despite the doctrine's long standing function in criminal procedure it has proven complex to apply in practice and has given rise to many varied legislative models and considerable litigation in different jurisdictions. Particularly troublesome is the question of what is to be done with someone who has been found unfit to stand trial. Here the law is required to balance the need to protect those defendants who are unable to participate effectively in their own trial, whether permanently or for a defined period, and the need to protect the public from people who may have caused serious social harm as a result of their antisocial behaviour. The challenge for law reformers, legislators and judges is to create rules that ensure that everyone who can properly be tried is tried while seeking to preserve confidence in the fairness of the legal system by ensuring that people who cannot properly engage in the criminal trial process are not forced to endure it.

Labour Law and Social Protection in a Globalized World Jan Pichrt, Kristina Koldinská, 2018-09-07 The protection of jobs and labour law standards achieved by employees in the past has been under pressure from neoliberalization forces for many years. The focused perspectives evident in this original collection of essays go a long way toward clearly defining where labour law and social security law must set their sights in order to preserve fair and productive employer-employee relations in the new world of work. Distinguished researchers study the changing realities confronting the labour market in public policy as well as in industrial relations. Issues and topics include the following: integration of immigrants into industrial relations; the social situation of migrant workers; new phenomena brought by the digital age; temporary agency work; harmonizing family and working lives; sport and labour law; the role of European Works Councils and social and labour reforms. Throughout this book the contributors emphasize the changing role of the state and reform agendas. Although the central focus is on Europe, there is an abundance of comparative detail allowing for global application. As a matchless up-to-date overview and analysis of how new and emerging forms of employment and industrial relations impact employee security, this book will be warmly welcomed by practitioners, academics, and policymakers concerned with ensuring the persistence of fair and viable standards in labour and social security law.

Crop Receipts - A New Financing Instrument for Africa Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations, The Global Agriculture and Food Security Program, The World Bank, 2019-01-22. Crop receipts are a promising innovation in agricultural finance, first developed in Brazil about 20 years ago and recently replicated in Eastern Europe. Crop receipts allow farmers to obtain pre-harvest finance against a promise to produce a certain amount of crops with their future farm production serving as main collateral. Taking inspiration from past successes, this study examines the scope for adapting crop receipts to the African context and for introducing them on a pilot basis. The study analyzes the evolution of crop receipts and explores opportunities, challenges, and entry points for crop receipt in Africa. Crop receipt pilots in Uganda and Zambia are considered based on a detailed assessment of the legal frameworks, financial and agricultural sectors, and stakeholder consultations. The report closes with the main findings and offers some strategic and operational considerations for introducing crop receipt finance in Africa. The study was conducted by the FAO Investment Centre within its partnership with the International Finance Corporation (IFC) with co-funding from the GAFSP Private Sector Window. While the primary objective of the study is to guide IFC in exploring concrete investment opportunities for piloting crop receipts, its findings and recommendations could be of interest to a broader set of stakeholders in agricultural finance and development.
