College Science Joel J. Mintzes,Emily M. Walter,2020-02-23 This book explores evidence based practice in college science teaching It is grounded in disciplinary education research by practicing scientists who have chosen to take Wieman s 2014 challenge seriously and to investigate claims about the efficacy of alternative strategies in college science teaching In editing this book we have chosen to showcase outstanding cases of exemplary practice supported by solid evidence and to include practitioners who offer models of teaching and learning that meet the high standards of the scientific disciplines Our intention is to let these distinguished scientists speak for themselves and to offer authentic guidance to those who seek models of excellence Our primary audience consists of the thousands of dedicated faculty and graduate students who teach undergraduate science at community and technical colleges 4 year liberal arts institutions comprehensive regional campuses and flagship research universities In keeping with Wieman s challenge our primary focus has been on identifying classroom practices that encourage and support meaningful learning and conceptual understanding in the natural sciences The content is structured as follows after an Introduction based on Constructivist Learning Theory Section I the practices we explore are Eliciting Ideas and Encouraging Reflection Section II Using Clickers to Engage Students Section III Supporting Peer Interaction through Small Group Activities Section IV Restructuring Curriculum and Instruction Section V Rethinking the Physical Environment Section VI Enhancing Understanding with Technology Section VII and Assessing Understanding Section VIII The book s final section IX is devoted to Professional Issues facing college and university faculty who choose to adopt active learning in their courses The common feature underlying all of the strategies described in this book is their emphasis on actively engaging students who seek to make sense of natural objects and events Many of the strategies we highlight emerge from a constructivist view of learning that has gained widespread acceptance in recent years In this view learners make sense of the world by forging connections between new ideas and those that are part of their existing knowledge base For most students that knowledge base is riddled with a host of na ve notions misconceptions and alternative conceptions they have acquired throughout their lives To a considerable extent the job of the teacher is to coax out these ideas to help students understand how their ideas differ from the scientifically accepted view to assist as students restructure and reconcile their newly acquired knowledge and to provide opportunities for students to evaluate what they have learned and apply it in novel circumstances Clearly this prescription demands far more than most college and university scientists have been prepared for

Evidence-Based Practice in Exercise Science Amonette, William E., English, Kirk, Kraemer, William, 2016-01-28 Evidence Based Practice in Exercise Science The Six Step Approach equips readers with the basic skills and competencies to discern the value of scientific research and become evidence based practitioners Big Data and the Welfare State Torben Iversen, Philipp Rehm, 2022-05-25 A core principle of the welfare state is that everyone pays taxes or contributions in exchange for universal insurance against social risks such as sickness old age unemployment and plain bad luck This solidarity principle assumes that everyone is a member of a single national insurance pool and it is commonly explained by poor and asymmetric information which undermines markets and creates the perception that we are all in the same boat Living in the midst of an information revolution this is no longer a satisfactory approach This book explores theoretically and empirically the consequences of big data for the politics of social protection Torben Iversen and Philipp Rehm argue that more and better data polarize preferences over public insurance and often segment social insurance into smaller more homogenous and less redistributive pools using cases studies of health and unemployment insurance and statistical analyses of life insurance credit markets and public opinion Nitrogen in the Environment Muhammad Shaaban, Ryusuke Hatano, Rosa María Martínez-Espinosa, Yupeng Wu, 2022-03-29 Evidence Based Policing Renée J. Mitchell, Laura Huey, 2018-12-05 Over the past ten years the field of evidence based policing EBP has grown substantially evolving from a novel idea at the fringes of policing to an increasingly core component of contemporary policing research and practice Examining what makes something evidence based and not merely evidence informed this book unifies the voices of police practitioners academics and pracademics It provides real world examples of evidence based police practices and how police research can be created and applied in the field Includes contributions from leading international EBP researchers and practitioners such as Larry Sherman University of Cambridge Lorraine Mazerolle University of Queensland Anthony Braga Northeastern and Craig Bennell Carleton University Development of executive function during childhood Yusuke Moriguchi, Philip D Zelazo, Nicolas Chevalier, 2016-04-01 Executive function refers to the goal oriented regulation of one's own thoughts actions and emotions Its importance is attested by its contribution to the development of other cognitive skills e.g. theory of mind social abilities e.g. peer interactions and academic achievement e.g. mathematics and by the consequences of deficits in executive function which are observed in wide range of developmental disorders such as attention deficit hyperactivity disorder and autism Over the last decade there have been growing interest in the development of executive function and an expanding body of research has shown that executive function develops rapidly during the preschool years with adult level performance being achieved during adolescence or later This recent work together with experimental research showing the effects of interventions targeting executive function has yielded important insights into the neurocognitive processes underlying executive function Given the complexity of the construct of executive function however and the multiplicity of underlying processes there are often inconsistencies in the way that executive function is defined and studied. This inconsistency has hampered communication among researchers from various fields. This Research Topic is intended to bridge this gap and provide an opportunity for researchers from different perspectives to discuss recent advances in understanding childhood executive function. Researchers using various methods including behavioral experiments, neuroimaging, eye tracking, computer simulation, observational methods, and questionnaires are encouraged to contribute original empirical research. In addition to original empirical articles, theoretical reviews and opinion perspective articles on promising future directions are welcome. We hope that researchers from different areas such as developmental psychology, educational psychology, experimental psychology, neuropsychology, neuroscience, psychiatry, computational science, etc. will be represented in the Research Topic.
