

A Modest Proposal Formative Quiz

1. Which text describes the purpose, either implied or explicit, of the speaker?

the betterment of society to defend his society against attacks over their treatment of the Irish to shame the British into reconsidering their attitudes toward the Irish profit to shame sentimentalists' profits

2. Which of these texts likely to be a part of this document's intended audience?

members of Parliament the English-irishland elite Irish Protestants the upper classes of Irish-Catholics living in England, France, or the Continent poor-Catholic Irish men and women

3. Which of these is not one of the speaker's purposes?

to persuade the English of the advantages of cannibalism to impress the English balance of trade to improve his own reputation to educate the Irish of responsibility for their problems to address some of England's nutritional problems

4. Which of these statements would the speaker be least likely to utter?

It may turn be a productive means of meeting the feelings of those in power who, it is sufficient to write,
I feel that Ireland has tremendous potential to become a thriving part of the Empire.
Public debate of social problems is an important function of Government but regular citizens should contribute where they can.
Solutions to social problems, even desperate ones, are best achieved through market forces rather than direct action by Government.
It would not be amiss if my suggestion is light-hearted, off-putting and impudent people and led to an improvement in my station.

5. Four of these are premises of the speaker's argument. Which is not?

Charity is a chief and religious responsibility of the middle and upper classes. Catholics are dangerous to the nation.
Government is responsible for the basic welfare of all citizens. Ireland at the present time has too many people.
Whether inherently or as a consequence of history, England is an exceptional nation.

6. In the course of the document, the author attacks four of these. Which of these is not attacked?

Gentlemanism of England and Ireland who have abused and exhausted their land so that it is unproductive
Landlords, by which he means gentlemen who own property in Ireland and rent it, usually to poor-Catholics
Young women at the upper classes in Dublin who live lives of conspicuous consumption
Shopkeepers who are likely to profit at any time, even when the economy is in distress
Young farmers who are too busy to work despite a great need for their services

I have been assured by a very knowing American of my acquaintance in London, that a young healthy child well nursed, is, at a year old, is most delicious nourishing and wholesome food, whether stewed, roasted, baked, or boiled, and I make no doubt that it will equally serve in a fricasse, or a ragout.

7. This sentence defines the proposal. Which compositional device is most clearly in use to maximize its impact?

imagery hyperbole personification irony syntax

8. Which text explains the structure of a comma between "delicious" and "nourishing"?

The author's demonstrated attention to using commas is an elaborate ornament of punctuation
The punctuation is as we would expect in a personification the person who composed this quite artistically omitted it
Omitting the comma is proper mechanics The comma is the best choice

9. Which of these substitutions best is the irony of the sentence above?

Though the speaker has not stated this "text," he is urging others to eat it "to eat" and "feed" share several connotations
The source for this information is American the suggestions for recipes are numerous and specific "serve" is a clever pun

10. Which of these describes the text likely to be the first of the sentence above?

distributed anonymously in the rougher areas of Dublin submitted as a bill to Lords and Commons for an attempt to change the law in these magazines or books circulated among the landed elite it lived on walls in busy parts of a city in the middle of the night to be found in an enduring place of literature eagerly read by schoolchildren of the future

11. The speaker's form of this document is

A lecture by a visiting foreign dignitary to a gathering of wealthy and powerful members of the English economic elite
An anonymous "nourishing breakfast" intended to arouse the poor and distract them from their hapless lives of usual crushing labor
A pamphlet, probably self-published, circulated to further discussion of political and civic issues
An essay used in schools of the time to help educate young people in the subtleties of irony
An "Orange Letter," a propaganda device circulated by the Dutch to encourage a Catholic rebellion against the English

12. The author's purpose in this essay is to shame the English into putting more effort and money into measures to punish and limit abortion educate English Catholics for failing to help and support the Irish make the Irish feel their helplessness possibly in the face of English oppression defend the English for their cruelty and continuing violence profit his profits and make money as a writer
