Graduate Certificate in Museum Studies and Material Culture Reflection Essay

The Museum Studies Certificate Program introduced me to a wealth of perspectives on museological research and challenged me to think critically about the ethics of representation within cultural institutions and museum spaces. Obtaining a Master's degree in American Studies is part of a career change, and the Certificate program gave me the opportunity to step out of my academic comfort zone and apply my research processes to understanding cultural performance as a mode of presentation. As I am not a material culturalist, archivist, anthropologist or archeologist, my approach to the Certificate was perhaps a bit different than my fellow graduate students. With Dr. Judith Freidenberg's permission, I shaped my course of study around issues of research and performance instead of material culture or anthropological theory. When I enrolled in the program during my second semester, my mind was steeped in the topics of my Master's thesis: subcultural theory and performances of middle aged identities in nightclub spaces, and cultural performance was not yet on my academic radar.

During the Introduction to Museum Studies seminar, my interest was piqued by issues of shared curatorial authority and representation, particularly during the readings on the Smithsonian Folklife Festival, where I was introduced to the problematic issues of representation embedded in "exhibiting" living cultures, as well as the idea that curation can hold the possibility to reimagine power relationships - at least to some extent - in settings that go beyond the traditional brick and mortar museum setting which enshrines objects. My general approach to

Good Introduction For Reflection Paper:

A Handbook of Reflective and Experiential Learning Jennifer A. Moon, 2013-04-15 This handbook acts as an essential guide to understanding and using reflective and experiential learning whether it be for personal or professional development or as a tool for learning It takes a fresh look at experiential and reflective learning locating them within an overall theoretical framework for learning and exploring the relationships between different approaches As well as the theory the book provides practical ideas for applying the models of learning with tools activities and photocopiable resources which can be incorporated directly into classroom practice This book is essential reading to guide any teacher lecturer or trainer wanting to improve teaching and learning Introduction to CRISPR-Cas9 Techniques Michael J. Wolyniak, Donna L. Pattison, Jay N. Pieczynski, Maria S. Santisteban, 2025-02-17 This open access textbook provides an in depth introduction into the CRISPR cas9 technology and explores its use across the gamut of biological model systems As the subject has risen from a significant new discovery to a mainstream molecular biology practice it is essential that students of molecular biology understand the fundamentals behind CRISPR Cas9 technology and how it may be employed efficiently and ethically in research This volume edited by experts in both molecular biology and undergraduate education will teach not only the fundamentals of using CRISPR Cas9 but also how to successfully employ this technology in classroom settings The book is written for undergraduates and advanced high school classes in the area of molecular biology genetics genomics and biological engineering and will provide a perfect tool for undergraduate lecturers to prepare their classes Reflections and
