Teaching History Online John F. Lyons, 2008-11-19 Bringing history teaching into the twenty-first century. Teaching History Online is a concise guide to developing and using internet resources in history instruction. It offers practical, jargon-free advice to help the history teacher develop online assignments and provides an informed introduction to the myriad resources and tools available for use in the online classroom. Beginning with a chapter on the benefits of teaching and studying online, John F. Lyons goes on to address instructors' most commonly asked questions and concerns, including designing an online class, providing online alternatives to the lecture, developing a user-friendly discussion board, conducting assessment, and dealing with classroom management issues. For historians interested in providing an online element to their traditional face-to-face classroom teaching, the final chapter shows how to develop successful hybrid/blended classes. An accessible introduction and valuable resource, Teaching History Online includes sample lesson plans, examples of online learning tools, and suggestions for further reading, helping those who use or want to use online resources to create exciting, interactive, and rewarding learning environments. It includes three modules or prevention levels. Module 3 of Zenstudies, presented here, is a targeted, indicated prevention program consisting of 10 small group sessions, no more than 12 students, led by two mental health professionals. This is the guide for Module 3, the targeted, indicated prevention program. It presents the 10 small group sessions, 6 to 10 students, that will be led by two mental health professionals. The sessions include 15 components and are tailored to first-year students experiencing anxious or depressive symptoms. The goal is early intervention aimed at preventing mental health disorders in at-risk students. It has been shown that the presence of symptoms is a strong predictor of a future mental health disorder, which is why intervention is vital at symptom onset. By reducing symptoms of depression and anxiety, the program also facilitates the transition from high school to college or university, thereby lowering the risk of dropout It also raises awareness about anxiety and depression which are both internalizing disorders and equips students with different preventive strategies Published in English Resources in Education ,1994 United States Exports of Domestic and Foreign Merchandise ,1950 Next Generation Technology-Enhanced Assessment John C.
