The concept of personality is one of the central topics in psychology and psychoanalysis. There are several scientific theories that characterize the process of the personality development. The understanding of this process is a crucial factor in the children upbringing and education of people.

The aim of this essay is to define the concept of personality, give its theoretical explanation and analyze factors influencing the process of the personality development.

There are different views on the concept of personality and, as a result, different scholars interpret the concept in their own way. For instance, Allport defined it as "a dynamic organization, inside the person, of psychophysical systems that create the person's characteristic patterns of behavior, thoughts and feelings" (Personality, n.d., p. 294).

Other scholars concentrated their attention on the additional features of personality. For example, Child insisted on the importance of the consistency and difference of behavior in definition of personality (Personality, n.d.). One of the broadest definitions is given below.

"Personality is an individual's unique variation on the general evolutionary design for human nature, expressed as a developing pattern of dispositional traits, characteristic adaptations, and integrative life stories complexly and differentially situated in culture" (Personality development, n.d., par. 5).

There are several basic theories explaining the concept of personality. The first one belongs to Sigmund Freud, a famous Austrian psychoanalyst. Freud defines the personality as the union of three integral parts which are "Ego", "Id", and "Super-Ego". The first component relates to our past experience, our bad memories, which can be both conscious and unconscious. The "Id" is our inner perception of ourselves.

And the "Super-Ego" is what the environment contributes to our personality. In addition, Freud argues that "Ego" and "Super-Ego" exist in the continuous fight against each other, but "Id" tries to find a compromise in their struggle. It is the compromise between our personal satisfaction and moral norms. Overall, Freud's approach to
