Crimea to the Mongolian grassland nomadic image making was rooted in metonymically conveyed zoomorphic designs creating an alternative ecological reality The nomadic elite nucleus embraced this elaborate image system to construct collective memory in reluctant diverse political alliances organised around shared geopolitical goals rather than ethnic ties Largely known by the term animal style this zoomorphic visual rhetoric became so ubiquitous across the Eurasian steppe network that it transcended border regions and reached the heartland of sedentary empires like China and Persia This book shows how a shared fluency in animal style design became a status defining symbol and a bonding agent in opportunistic nomadic alliances and was later adopted by their sedentary neighbours to showcase worldliness and control over the Others In this study of enormous geographical scope the author raises broader questions about the place of nomadic societies in the art historical canon

Asia in the Making of Europe, Volume II Donald F. Lach, 2010-01-15 This is the second volume in a series that traces century by century the role of Asia in the making of Europe The rise to world dominance of the Western nations in modern times and the rapid industrial growth of the West which outpaced the East in technical and military achievements have led to a historical eclipse of the ancient and brilliant cultures of Asia Historian Donald F Lach in his influential scholarly work Asia in the Making of Europe points out that an eclipse is never permanent that this one was never total and that there was a period in early modern times when Asia and Europe were close rivals in brilliance and mutual influence

Asia in the Making of Europe, Volume II Donald F. Lach, 1965 First systematic inclusive study of the impact of the high civilizations of Asia on the development of modern Western civilization
