Regression with Dummy Variables Melissa A. Hardy, 1993-02-25 It is often necessary for social scientists to study differences in groups such as gender or race differences in attitudes buying behavior or socioeconomic characteristics When the researcher seeks to estimate group differences through the use of independent variables that are qualitative dummy variables allow the researcher to represent information about group membership in quantitative terms without imposing unrealistic measurement assumptions on the categorical variables Beginning with the simplest model Hardy probes the use of dummy variable regression in increasingly complex specifications exploring issues such as interaction heteroscedasticity multiple comparisons and significance testing the use of effects or contrast coding testing for curvilinearity and estimating a piecewise linear regression Introductory Econometrics Humberto Barreto, Frank Howland, 2006 This highly accessible

Methods of Interregional and Regional Analysis Walter Isard, Iwan J. Azis, Matthew P. Drennan, Ronald E. Miller, Sidney Saltzman, Erik Thorbecke, 2017-07-05. This landmark textbook introduces students to the principles of regional science and focuses on the key methods used in regional analysis, including regional and interregional input output analysis, econometrics, regional and spatial programming, and industrial and urban complex analysis, gravity and spatial interaction models, SAM, and social accounting, welfare analysis, and applied general interregional equilibrium models. The coherent development of the materials contained in the set of chapters provides students with a comprehensive background and understanding of how to investigate key regional problems. For the research scholar, this publication constitutes an up to date source book of the basic elements of each major regional science technique. More significant, it points to new directions for future research and ways interregional and regional analytic approaches can be fused to realise much more probing attacks on regional and spatial problems, a contribution far beyond what is available in the literature.
