Military Social Skill Development 2015 Intake:

South Africa's Post-Apartheid Military Lindy Heinecken, 2020-01-01 This timely book examines how the South African National Defence Force has adapted to the country's new security political and social environment since 1994. In South Africa's changed political state, how has civilian control of the military been implemented and what does this mean for defence in a democracy? This book presents an overview of the security environment, how the mission focus of the military has changed and the implications for force procurement, force preparation, force employment and force sustainability. The author addresses other issues such as the effect of integrating former revolutionary soldiers into a professional armed force, the effect of affirmative action on meritocracy, recruitment and retention, military veterans looking at the difficulties they face in reintegrating back into society and finding gainful employment, gender equality and mainstreaming the rise of military unions and why a confrontational instead of a more corporatist approach to labour relations has emerged. HIV/AIDS and the consequences this holds for the military in terms of its operational effectiveness. In closing, the author highlights key events that have caused the SANDF to become lost in transition and transformation, spelling out some lessons learned. The conclusions she draws are pertinent for the future of defence security and civil-military relations of countries around the world.

Global Human Resource Development Thomas Garavan, Alma McCarthy, Michael Morley, 2016-02-05 Drawing on contributions from leading academics in the field, this volume within the Routledge Series in Human Resource Development specifically focuses on Global Human Resource Development (HRD). Specifically, the volume provides an overview of 17 regions, 85 countries and includes one emerging market grouping (CIVETS). This book examines the role of the state in HRD, the relationship between HRD and the level of economic development in the country or region, the influence of foreign direct investment within the country or region and firm-level HRD practices within countries or regions. Global Human Resource Development analyzes HRD from institutional and cross-cultural perspectives, making it possible for the first time to analyze trends across countries and regions and to draw conclusions about the value of institutional and cross-cultural perspectives in the HRD context. There is currently no book on the market that conceptualizes the discipline of global HRD in this way, making this a definitive book on HRD across the globe of particular interest to researchers and reflective practitioners.

Spinelli, 2025-03-31 Sustainable consumption is an essential element for the transition towards sustainable lifestyles In our daily lives care is intertwined with processes of looking after oneself family households and friends as well as distant others and the community as a whole As such it addresses all planes of human lives From a sustainability perspective care also relates to the living environment and the resources necessary for production and consumption Looking at sustainable consumption through the lens of care offers us conceptual tools to reframe how to safeguard the planet its biodiversity and the people living on it In a classic definition care is summarized as a species activity that includes everything that we do to maintain continue and repair our world so that we can live in it as well as possible Fisher and Tronto 1991 mention that world includes our bodies our selves and our environment all of which we seek to interweave in a complex life sustaining web Care highlights our vulnerability as living beings and the way a complex network of life sustaining relationships holds us responsible to each other Care is thus a significant thread that links together the ecological economic social and political systems we act within with important implications for sustainable consumption and building sustainable societies Scholarship on how care and sustainable practices interact is fragmented but the interest is growing Care originates in feminist scholarship first developed in relation to health In more recent years its uses have been also expanding to environmental and sustainability realms Today the work on sustainable consumption and care can be roughly divided into four categories The first area of work relates to whether ethical or political consumption can allow caring relations to flourish and develop The second area of research is concerned with sustainability in the context of motherhood mostly showing how gender relations and caring activities tend to send sustainability in the background in favor of a focus on health A third and growing body of work pertains to how inconspicuous consumption is intertwined with care activities for example in relation to food or energy consumption Such work also addresses gender and social inequalities in sustainable consumption as well as notions of communities built through consumption practices and caring relations Finally care as a dimension of geographical communities or communities of interest that supports sustainability and resilience is also gaining traction The goal of this Research Topic is to delineate and differentiate the interplay between sustainable consumption and care We are interested in care in the context of sustainable consumption including social economic and ecological sustainability Resource use and material energy and time demand differ widely amongst caring practices We want to identify and explore tensions common ground innovations and key issues in these areas We consider care as a useful concept to imagine and bring about societies oriented towards sustainable wellbeing and to define the pathways and practices necessary to achieve them As we wish to define a new research area this topic aims to discuss the interrelation between care and sustainability by addressing but not limited to the following themes from a variety of perspectives amongst others feminism gender studies and intersectional approaches socio technical systems social practice theories critical theory transformative approaches time use studies socio ecological transformation or Actor Network Theory An ethos of care as a pathway towards more sustainable forms of production and consumption Conceptualizing needs and wellbeing through the lens of care Analyzing caring practices from a perspective of climate change resource use and energy demands Methodological implications of care and an intersectional feminist approach to sustainable consumption Time for care in the unpaid and paid world of work incl commodification and outsourcing of care in the global economy Teleoaffectivities emotions the body and social norms Agency social and environmental justice inequalities and sustainable wellbeing Care for the community and the public good as a way towards a more sustainable society We are particularly interested in original research methodological and theoretical papers case studies as well as policy and practice reviews
